INDIANA POLITICS.

Speculations as to How the State Will Go Next Tuesday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 30.—Since the State election the surface of things political here has been an unruffled calm. An eddy occurred over the publication by the Sentinel, Democratic State organ, for evidence of illegal voting and the announcement of the Democratic purpose to punish ballot-box ravishers. Senator McDonald is in charge of the cases. Anything that has been accomplished under this head remains as yet unknown. Another ripple was made by the rumored attempts at a fusion of the Democrats and Greenbackers upon a mixed electoral ticket. The latter have protested stoutly, and if anything has come of it it is not apparent. The Republicans are in a little flutter over what they term "Democratic activity." They say they have reports from every county in the State declaring the busiest sort of movement among Democrats. The activity they aver is unwonted and is unusually quiet. On the other hand the Democrats declare that nothing has been or is being done. One Democrat who ought to know, and whom I regard as entirely truthful, told me there was no movement whatever. "We have no money," said he. "Here and there in some counties there have been local contributions and some work is being done, but I know that no money has come from headquarters East and English has not given any. He thinks more of $15,000 or $20,000 than he does of the Vice-Presidency. There is nothing being done. We do not expect to carry the State. We told them at Cincinnati that Indiana was close, and that we could not carry it without Hendricks. But those fellows from the South thought they knew better. They said, 'We like Mr. Hendricks, but this year we are after success.' If there had been an Indiana Democrat named Mr. Success they would have nominated him. It has turned out as we told them it would."

If there is anything going on in Democratic circles it is the stillest kind of a still hunt. Mr. English may be seen almost any evening at the beautiful new theater which he recently built and presented his son, and, certainly does not wear the appearance of a much-worried man. If we may trust public reports and private gossip there are daily conversions of Democrats to the Republican ranks. With an earnest desire to get at the bottom facts, I can see nothing to warrant the assertion that Indiana will not give Garfield a greater majority than Porter received.

The presence of Stephen D. Dillaye here for the past week has caused much talk. He declares he is here for the purchase of some property costing $15,000, and to that end telegraphed for that sum to be placed to his credit. The Nationals declare that his business is wholly private. Senator McDonald has been to see Dillaye, and the manner of his entrance to the room convinced a local reporter that the visit was expected and was not the first he had made. The Republicans declare the whole thing is preliminary to the arrangement of the fusion above alluded to and, recalling their own bitter experience, they wish the Democrats joy of their purchase. What Dillaye wanted with money is not explained. Popularly the Democrats are supposed to be the ones to furnish the money. Democrats say nothing. Whatever they are doing, they do not talk. A Democratic member of the Campbellite church told me before the October election that whether Porter were elected or not, Garfield's vote would be greater than his, for there were hundreds of Democratic Campbellites who intended to vote for Brother Garfield and who would not vote for Porter.

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

Instead of going to an asylum for imbeciles or inebriates, James J. Stanton wants to go to the Legislature. His election would not only be an injury and disgrace to the city, but make her ridiculous before the whole State. Respectable Democrats of the First, Third, Tenth and Seventeenth Wards will do well to scratch Stanton.

John W. Drake wants to be Constable of the Second Ward. He is notoriously unfit to hold that or any office. He is self-nominated and represents nobody in the world but a suspicious ring of small politicians who claim to own in fee simple the primary ballot boxes of the Second Ward. Scratch him!

Dan Able wants to be State Senator. He is a very clever fellow personally, but politically he represents nothing except what is bad. He runs with the machine, was nominated by the worst ring influence of this city, and his election would simply mean a lobbyist inside the Senate. Scratch him!

The first duty of true Democracy is to vote for no ringsters, tricksters or jobbers—for no man who uses politics for a living and parties as a protective shield!

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

THE CHINESE PUZZLE.

The Case for the Prosecution Against Kenward Philp Closed.

Counsel for the Defense Maintain They Will Prove the Genuineness of the Letter.

The Philp Trial.

NEW YORK, October 30.—An immense crowd of spectators was at the examination this morning in the case of Kenward Philp, charged with alleged malicious libel in Truth against Garfield. At 11 o'clock Judge Davis ordered the doors of the court-room closed. The police had great difficulty in preserving order, so closely was the room packed. District Attorney Bell asked for additional time for the attendance of his witness from Washington, whereupon Howe, for the defense, said:

"In order that no time might be lost we ask you to allow us to call to the stand three witnesses from Washington. These gentlemen are Geo. Wedderburn, Maj. Hallett and Mr. Wilson, by whom it is expected to prove the genuineness of the letter from the examinations they have made with documents written by Gen. Garfield, on file in Washington."

Bell objected, saying counsel would have plenty of time during the day to examine them.

Howe—"With that I am satisfied."

DANIEL T. AMES,

expert, recalled by the prosecution, testified: I have examined the Morey envelope with exhibits A to K, and the handwriting is similar. It does not resemble exhibits 1 and 2, (Rockwell and Jewell's letters.) The handwriting on the Morey envelope is the work of the same man who wrote exhibits marked A to K.

Cross-examined: I know George Simpson, Jr.; I don't regard him as an expert; he is simply a copyist. I was editor of the Penman's Art Journal in May, 1877.

Mr. Howe showed the witness a copy of the journal in which Mr. Simpson was spoken of as a well-known round-hand writer and professional expert.

Howe: Did you write that article? A. I don't recollect.

Q.—Well, what is your opinion of him now, as an expert? A. I won't express an opinion.

Q.—Come, Mr. Ames, we have no false delicacy.

A.—I decline to answer.

Q.—Well, you may go. [Laughter.]

Bell then asked the indulgence of the Court for a few minutes. He says his associate counsel, with a witness from Washington, was expected every minute.

W. A. HASSELL

was called for by the prosecution: I am cancel clerk in the Washington Post-office, and have been all this year. The cancel stamp on the Morey letter has not been used in our office this year. The stamp used was a combination stamp, marking the postage stamp and giving the date at the same time. The stamp on the Morey letter is made, I should think, by a steel stamp. I am not able to say if it was affixed. The office cancelation stamp on the postage stamp on the envelope was not used in January last. It was first used about the middle of February. Witness produced a form of stamp used prior to the month of February. Continuing, he testified: The produced stamp was used after February. The use of the stamps was discontinued about the 15th of February, and these were then put in use. Cross-examined: Col. D. B. Ainger is Postmaster of the City of Washington. I have seen a statement made by him in the newspapers recently. He is my superior. I don't know that he caused to be published the statement. The changes in stamps I have referred to were made April 13. I have never heard of such publication.

COL. D. B. AINGER

was then called and examined by Mr. Bliss. He testified: I have been Postmaster of the City of Washington since January 13 last. I have never seen the Morey envelope. Canceling stamps in the Post-office; have not been the same since I was appointed. The stamps in use now were not in use in January last. The change was made in February. The stamp on the Morey letter was not in use in our office in January last, at least not after the 13th.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brooke: I know the business of my office, though it is impossible for me to know all the details. There is a more important duty than a thorough knowledge of canceling stamps. One of our duties is to see that letters are properly receipted and stamped. As Postmaster of Washington I do not know the precise date of the change of the stamp. I did not make the statement that the change of stamps were not effected until the 15th of April. That statement was published.

Redirect, by Mr. Bell.

That statement was not an official one. I saw the fac-simile of the envelope in Truth, and thought I might have made an error. Examined the stamp on it and then sent for my Assistant Postmaster and directed him to ascertain the exact time at which the stamps were changed, and it was ascertained it was in February. I then went to the man who made the stamp and he informed me he was paid February 15, but he had delivered the stamps some time before. The new stamps were first put in use between the 15th and 19th of February.

Examined by Mr. Brooke for the defense: I did not see Marshall Jewell before the publication of the statement until last night. I came to New York not knowing I was subpœnaed. I came because I was interested officially in this trial.

Examined by Bliss for prosecution: I came to New York last night.

Bliss announced that he had received a dispatch from the Lynn Post office saying that the Postmaster was out of town and he (Bliss) could not have him here before Monday.

Brooke (for the defense)—I shall ask you to sit to-morrow. This, your Honor, is a preliminary examination before a committing magistrate.

Judge Davis—We will consider that at the adjournment.

District Attorney Bell then called Colonel Bliss to the stand. He testified:

I am a complainant and I selected the Rockwell letter as a comparison. I saw it the morning of the 26th. I saw the Jewell letter after the Rockwell letter.

The letter was selected because it was desired to have one that could be photo-lithographed with the Jewell letter and because it was also the nearest in date to the alleged Morey letter.

Cross-examined by Mr. Brooke—I saw all the papers in the case or nearly all. I saw the exhibits, but did not know they were stolen. I asked if it came directly or indirectly through the hands of Louis J. Post and I was informed it did not.

Mr. Bell then stated that he rested the case, reserving the privilege, however, of calling as witnesses Expert Payne and the Lynn Postmaster, with one of the clerks.

THE DEFENSE BEGINS.

Counselor Howe—"May it please the court it is a matter of congratulation that the prosecution have terminated their so-called case. We are delighted to have an opportunity to prove the innocence of Mr. Philp and incidentally, of course, in behalf of the newspaper called Truth. Here he was interrupted on the part of the prosecution by a general search for some missing documents.

Mr. Brooke—Has the Morey letter been lost? I desire to use it.

Howe continued: This defense will substantiate the letter as published and prove the genuineness of James A. Garfield's signature. While we have a right to ask your Honor to dismiss this case on the testimony adduced, we feel we have a higher duty than that. I am desired to state on behalf of Mr. Hart and Mr. Philp that Your Honor's examination in this case has been a fair one. We propose to prove that the letter and envelope were received by Mr. Hart, who will prove how and from where he received them, and until after the publication of the fac-simile Mr. Philp never saw the letter. We will prove also Morey's existence. We will call his executors, and we will call experts to disprove the expert official testimony of the prosecution. We will produce gentlemen occupying high positions, who will testify to the genuiness of Garfield's signature. We will also show beyond doubt that that letter is not in the handwriting of Mr. Philp, but is the of the Republican Presidential nominee.

At the conclusion of Howe's speech applause was heard, and Judge Davis ordered the officers to put out those whom they knew to have offended. Mr. Howe then called Mr. Philp, but he did not appear.

Mr. Brooke—I think he comes here occasionally.

Mr. Howe—I believe he is in his office.

Mr. Brooke—We will send for him, your Honor, but it may save time to take our recess now.

Judge Davis—I did not intend to take a recess in order to save time.

Mr. Brooke—Then, your Honor, I will call to the stand John I. Davenport. Mr. Bell went out of the room when Mr. Howe opened. He will be here again. I will see him at lunch.

Mr. Howe—Mr. Davenport did not insult us. [Laughter.]

Mr. Brooke—Then I will call Mr. Bell.

testified as follows: The original papers on which the warrant was issued I have in my hands. I became possessed of the original manuscript of the article entitled "Lying and Sticking to It," on the 26th of October. It was handed to me at the rooms of the Republican National Committee, by whom I can't say. Messrs. Rockwell, Knox, Bliss, Stoughton and probably John I. Davenport were there I do not know how it came from the Truth office.

Mr. Brooke—Mr. Stoughton, take the stand. He testified: I am of counsel for the prosecution. I saw the exhibits shown Mr. Bell in the Republican National Committee room. I do not know how it came from the Truth office.

Mr. Brooke—Mr. Knox, take the stand.

He testified: I am of counsel for the prosecution. I saw the exhibit in the National Committee rooms. Mr. Davenport showed it to me. I do not know how it was produced. He did not tell me where or how he got it. I don't know, nor have I heard how it was obtained from the Truth office. I saw it first last Sunday at the Union Legue Club. I have seen it several times and it was generally in Davenport's possession.

Mr. Brooke—Mr. Bell, when will Mr. Davenport be here? A.—Shortly. I was to meet him at recess.

Mr. Brooke—Judge Davis says we are to have none.

Judge Davis—I would rather go without a meal than sit on Sunday.

Mr. Brooke—Just as your Honor pleases. We are willing to sit late to-night.

Judge Davis—If necessary, I will sit until the clock strikes 12.

Recess till 2 o'clock.

EXCITEMENT IN NEW YORK.

The Garfield and Jewell Letters the Town Topic of the Day.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 30.—Jewell's letter to Garfield commending Judge Dittenhoefer, counsel for the publisher of Truth, and, as the Express says, telling its own story of corrupt Republican bargaining, to which General Garfield's assent was given by his agent, the Chairman of the National Republican Committee, is the topic of the town to day, especially at all of the political headquarters, except the National Republican, where dreariness prevailed. This morning the "heads" were in obscurity somewhere, and only a knot of ward politicians occupied the parlors, whose staple of talk was the local Congressional nominations. No reference whatever was made to Jewell's confession or purchase or attempted purchase of evidence against Garfield on the Morey Chinese letter, which the National Republican Committee previously had, at great expense, pi-carded as a forgery throughout the country. It is a queer state of affairs, and shows the subtlety of the Republican methods when the prosecutor buys proofs of his adversary which he has already denounced as spurious and worthless. The Express says the report that the Tammany leaders are selling out the State and electoral ticket to them is an infamous falsehood without even the shadow of fact to rest upon. Tammany stands squarely and solidly by the ticket in every respect and it calls on every Democrat in the city and State to do his duty and his whole duty to the party and the country. The only hope of the country is in the election of Hancock and the restoration of the Democracy to power. Let every Democrat stand by his colors.

FANT'S FLIGHT.

Politics Ruin a Hoosier Merchant and He Absconds.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., October 30.—Fred. W. Fant, a prominent pork commission merchant in business here since the war, has absconded, leaving various parties the victims of forged notes upon which he raised from $3,000 to $5,000. The exact amount is not generally known. Fant left here the day after the election, saying he was going to St. Louis to go into business. Where he did go is not known. He was always regarded as an honorable man, though since this discovery it is said his brother, who was at one time treasurer of Hancock county of this State, and whose name was largely used on the forged notes, got him out of a similar scrape some years ago. A suit begun on one of the notes was what precipitated this flight. Politics is said to have been the cause of his ruin. In them he wasted time and money. He leaves a wife and three children.

That Letter.

CINCINNATI, October 30.—The Chamber of Commerce recommitted to the committee the correspondence read yesterday with Henry Watterson, with instructions to report what further action should be taken.

AMUSEMENTS.

Second Week of John McCullough at the Olympic.

"Hop-Scotch" Combination at Pope's—Edouin's "Sparke" at the Opera-House—Opening of the Dramatic Season at the Comique.

John McCullough has this week caught the current of the golden stream which flowed into the theaters. He played to crowded houses. That goes without saying. McCullough is a firmly established favorite with the St. Louis patrons of the theater and, election or no election, his audiences are as large as ever, the only limit being the capacity of the theater. Last night a most brilliant and fashionable house assembled, the programme which attracted them being the play of "Brutus." It was a grand performance, and in the fifth act, when the stern but yet loving father in his conception of his duty to his country sentences his own son to the axe, McCullough equaled, if he did not surpass, the finest of his previous efforts. At the matinee this afternoon McCullough appears in the role of Iago, and to-morrow evening a second performance of "The Gladiator" closes his first week's engagement. Agnes Robertson, at Pope's, has been only fairly patronized. There was nothing in the play of "Jessie Brown; or, The Siege of Lucknow," especially attractive to our theater-goers. Last night "Arrah-na-Pogue" was produced, Miss Robertson personating the heroine. The same piece is presented this afternoon and evening, when Miss Robertson's short season terminates. The "Widow Bedott" remains on the boards of the Grand Opera house to-night. Mr. Charles Bishop's rendition of the Widow has drawn average audiences. At the Theatre Comique this is the last week of the variety entertainment, and henceforth the melodrama will be substituted as the attraction. Next week is a peculiarly trying one for the theaters, it being election week, after which it is to be presumed the sailing will be far smoother.

Olympic.

John McCullough enters on the second week of his engagement at this theater on Monday evening, and as it will be the last opportunity for some time of witnessing the legitimate, he should receive more than his usual patronage. One of the features of the McCullough series of classic tragedy is the uniform excellence of his company. Mr. Fred. B. Warde is an actor of well known merit, reputation and versatility. He has the dramatic instincts of a true artist, and every part he plays is carried out with a fine attention to detail and completeness. Mr. John A. Lane is an excellent actor. Trained in the thorough school of the legitimate, he is imbued with a natural aptitude for his profession, supplemented by scholarly training. Mr. Edmund K. Collier is a new addition to McCullough's company, having taken the place of Mr. Sutton, although not his roles. Mr. Collier is gifted with a magnificent voice, round and sonorous in tones, and his elocution is good. He is also a talented artist, and his accession certainly adds to the total strength of the company. Mr. H. A. Langdon has been cast for different parts this season from those he has heretofore taken, and we think greatly to his advantage. He has done some most excellent acting. His Kent in "King Lear" was one of the best characters we have seen him in. Miss Kate Forsythe, the leading lady, has improved considerably since last season, with a promise of still further development. Her renditions were more matured and displayed more force than heretofore. Miss Mittens Willett has also made rapid strides. Her Fool in "King Lear" and Lucretia in "Brutus" discovered a power and pathos in interpretation and a delicacy and completeness of conception full of promise for her future in the career she has chosen. Mrs. Augusta Forster is an experienced actress of ability, possessed of great declamatory power. Thus, although McCullough is the great central light, Warde is a planet whose brilliancy is undimmed even by his wondrous luminosity. The other stars, if not of the first magnitude, burn no less brightly and distinctly for their contiguity to the great luminaries. A galaxy of sterling artists are grouped around McCullough, and the result is a performance of marked smoothness, equality and excellence. Mr. John J. Collins, in the responsible position of stage manager, could not be bettered. Mr. McCullough's repertoire for next week is as follows: Monday, "Richard the Third;" Tuesday, "Richelieu;" Wednesday, "Julius Cæsar;" Thursday, "Othello;" Friday, "Virginius;" Saturday matinee, "Hamlet;" Saturday evening, "Richard the Third."

Grand Opera-House.

On Sunday evening Willie Edouin's company of "Sparks" begin a week's engagement at the Opera-house in their new, quaint and queer musical comedy concert, "Dreams; or, Fun in a Photograph Gallery," written by Mr. Nat Childs and Mr. Willie Edouin. The company embraces the following array of talented artists: Willie Edouin, Jacques Kruger, Frank W. Sanger, George Leclaire, James Powers, Alice Atherton, Julia Edouin, Lotta Belton, a lady with a phenomenal tenor voice, Ida Shapleigh, and Annetta Dumare. Mr. Wm. J. Rostetter is the musical director. "Dreams" was first produced at Boston, where it met with instantaneous success. It was next produced in New York, where it made the hit of the season, and since then it has been received with the greatest enthusiasm in every town in which it has been presented. The New York Herald says of the piece: "If the success of a piece may be measured by the unmistakable enjoyment of an audience, 'Fun in a Photograph Gallery' last night leaped at a bound into popular favor. From beginning to end it bristles with the drollest of nonsense, that makes the people laugh in spite of themselves. It consists of two acts, in the first of which the principal characters above named are assembled under the roof-tree of John Antonio Binks, aged sixty-one (Willie Edouin), and Ruby Binks, John's wife, aged sixty-five (Miss Alice Atherton). Here their sons and daughters-in-law celebrate around the festive board a Christmas eve, and anticipate the possible presence of a Christmas granddaughter. The old man makes a muddled speech, which is very funny, a number of pleasant songs are sung, and at the last, when the company have departed, he drops into a half-tipsy slumber and—dreams. Act second introduces the company to the audience in the respective characters above indicated. They visit a photographic gallery, and are taken in all conceivable shapes and garments. The fun flows fast and furious. They sing, dance, act in burlesque, and elicit from the audience shouts of laughter. Not a dull or idle moment is permitted to exist during the entire evening. As the play progresses, it quickly develops vim and vitality, and retains its interest to the end. Much of the music was original. The closing scene is rapidly and ingeniously changed to the first, and the old man (Willie Edouin), who but a moment before was wildly rushing around the photograph gallery, awakens to find that all that has passed "was only a dream."

Pope's.

At Pope's Theater on Monday evening, for the benefit of the Epstein brothers, the Young Men's Hebrew Association appear in "The Chimes of Normandy." The regular week's season begins on Tuesday, when the Gulick and Blaisdell Hop-Scotch Combination make their debut before a St. Louis audience. The company includes Augustus J. Bruno, the celebrated dialect comedian, the two Daniels—Mason and Sully—Miss Louise Manfred, who will be remembered as the prima donna at Uhrig's last summer, Miss Georgie Pettit, Miss Helen Grayson, and Mr. William Buckley. The Kansas City Times says of the entertainment: The Hop-Scotch Combination, started out this season under the auspices of Gulick & Blaisdell, appeared at the Opera-house last evening. The entertainment proved to be one of the sprightliest and most entertaining performances that have been contributed by recent organizations. The play, to speak generically, was a hodge-podge of extravagance, and perhaps the name "Hop-Scotch" suits it as well as any other. It has a faint suggestion of a plot, just strong enough to introduce the dialect and character sketches, together with musical interpolations, and upon this its merit hangs. The performance is even throughout, starts out with a snap, and keeps up the interest to the close. The company is exceedingly clever, and admirably suited to genteel burlesque. Miss Louise Manfred, who has attacked the lyric drama in heavier roles, has found a line for which she is pre-eminently fitted. With a pretty face and figure, an excellent voice and a dashing manner, she can always play to a thoroughly appreciative audience in light comedy or travesty. The two Daniels, Mason and Sully, are capital dialect comedians. The other parts are filled in most acceptably, and so "Hop-Scotch" goes on to the boundless merriment of all. The incidental music is popular and pleasing, borrowed largely from the opera bouffe or opera comique, with here and there a sentimental ditty (Abt's "Embarrassment," for instance), thrown in, for lovers, we should say, judging from the tempo and dramatic effect.

Theatre Comique.

John W. Ransone's Dramatic and Speciality Company open at the Theatre Comique to-morrow afternoon. The Murrays, Manchester, the Burgesses and Miss Fannie V. Reynolds, of the present week's bill, remain and will be reinforced in the specialties by Miss Ida Farren and the three McAvoys. The company will present "Across the Atlantic," with Mr. John W. Ransone in the characters of Horace Durand, Blue Jacob and Miles O'Flynn. The combinations will be continued from next week. The following will be the stock company at this theater: George W. Reed, leading man; Charles Krone, heavy; Joe Burgess, leading juvenile; Miss Rose Lisle, leading lady; Miss Annie Burgess, soubrette. Miss Marion Mordaunt, in "Our Girls," is under lined for the week commencing November 7th.

JUDGE JOHN WICKHAM.

Some Excellent Reasons Why He Should Be Elected Appeal Court Judge.

ST. LOUIS, October 30, 1880.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Why should any truly consistent Democrat vote for Mr. Thompson in preference to Judge Wickham for the Court of Appeals? Compare their records. Judge Wickham has been a resident of this city closely identified with its interests for over thirty years. Take him in private life, at the bar or in public station, he has been conspicuous for his high-mindedness and honorable bearing. Against his honor and integrity neither malice nor scandal has hurled a single shaft of destruction, a high tribute, indeed, at this day. He was born, bred and has lived a Democrat, true to his party through good and evil report. Of Mr. Thompson we know but little prior to his short residence here. Born in the North, he went South after the war. There he was identified with that delectable class known as carpet-baggers. Here he has been a virulent partisan and third-term stalwart. When nominated he was so little known to the people that we were forced to ask, who is Thompson? There must indeed be a grave disparity of qualification between the two candidates to cause any true Democrat to hesitate. Mr. Thompson has not been long a devotee of the law. Since his admission to our bar in 1874 his entire attention has been devoted to several "compilations," better called "digests," on special topics. He has written no treatise which might show an acquaintance with the great body of the law. It is not pretended that he has had any experience in actual practice in the courts. How can he be possessed of that familiarity with the details of practice and the general principles of the law so absolutely essential to a Judge? As for Judge Wickham, in addition to the experience of a large practice for many years, he has been especially qualified to fill this responsible position by an education of six years on the circuit bench. There he has been thoroughly tried and found entirely capable. A Republican paper of this city has charged that the bar is opposed to him. We have been at pains to inform ourselves and have no hesitation in pronouncing the charge utterly false. Such unscrupulous attempts to mislead should meet with the indignation and the severest coademnation of all good citizens. Promotion at the hands of the people is eminently due him as a reward for the honesty, fidelity and competency with which he has filled his present position. In all respects his record as a man and Judge should command the confidence of this community. Again we ask why should Democrats discard a tried and faithful Democrat in behalf of a Republican experiment? DEMOCRAT.

ALL liable to stomach and biliary diseases should regulate their diet, and never allow their bowels to become constipated; but use in time Hamburg Drops, the surest and safest stomach and liver regulator in the world.

At St. Joseph, Mo., a cowardly assault was made on Thursday night on R. N. Traver, a reporter of the Herald, by George W. Frame and Mr. McClaggett. Frame struck him with his fist and McClaggett beat him about the head with a cane. But for timely interference Traver would have been killed. He was taken home and his wounds dressed.

Jesse B. Anthony, principal of the firm of J. R. Pettes & Co., coffee and spice dealers, Troy, N. Y., director of the Union National Bank and President of the Troy Steam Heating Company, has made a general assignment. His liabilities are over $100,000. Anthony's failure is due to the suspension of Cupolya & Co., in New York. Anthony is Grand Master of the Masons in New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Thomson, of 2649 Washington avenue, gave a small dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. John McCullough, the tragedian. The dinner was pronounced charming by all present, and the occasion one long to be remembered, for it is not often that one can meet over a private board so eminent an actor as Mr. McCullough. There were present, beside the host and hostess, Mr John McCullough, Miss Forsythe, of the McCullough company, Adolph Busch and wife, and Harry Weber and wife.

A quiet but very pleasant wedding took place on Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Haley, 2131 Walnut street. The groom was Mr. David H. Hays, the second son of Postmaster Sam. T. Hays, and chief clerk of the stamp department of the Post-office. The bride was Miss J. Clinton Bowen, late of Hannibal and daughter of Mrs. Haley. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends, at 4:30 p.m., by Rev. Thomas P. Haley of the First Christian Church, Mr. Haley being a brother of the bride's mother. There were no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Hays left the same night for Chicago and the East and will be absent two weeks.

The most notable society wedding of the past week was that of Mr. Thomas S. McPheeters, of T. S. McPheeters & Co., warehousemen, of Main street, and Miss Lizzie Polk, the youngest daughter of the late Trusten Polk. The event had long been anticipated, and great was the desire of society people to be present when it was known that the wedding would be a large one. The marriage was celebrated at half past seven o'clock on Thursday evening at the handsome residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Trusten Polk, at the corner of Fourteenth and Lucas Place. The attendance at the ceremony was small, or just sufficient to fill one parlor, and was confined to relatives and intimate friends. The parlor was profusely adorned for the occasion with choice cut flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Tudor, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The bridesmaids, four in number, were Miss Wickham, Miss Myra Bredell, Miss Allen and Miss Sallie McPheeters. The attendants upon the groom were Mr. Ashley Cabell, Mr. David F. Colville, Mr. H. T. Kent and Mr. J. A. Seddon, Jr. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. W. F. Causey. Her costume was a very rich one. It was of white satin, cut en traine and profusely trimmed with costly laces: the usual veil and orange blossoms and diamond ornaments completed a very becoming one. The bridesmaids were all attired in white. Immediately after the ceremony there was a reception, which lasted until half-past 10 o'clock. At about 9 o'clock an elegant wedding supper was provided. Afterwards there was music, but no dancing. The presents received by the bride were numerous and unusually handsome, but were not generally displayed. THE HOUSEHOLD.

Retail Rates of the Various Things that Cheer the Inner Man.

The cost of living is an ever-recurring subject, and how much of an outlay it requires to provide for the household each day is a question, which never fails to suggest itself. "What shall we have for dinner to-day?" asks the lady of the house, as she mentally parades the entire list of meats and all sorts of esculents, and then when she finally settles upon a menu the question of money arises, and how much will it cost provides another subject for reflection. As a consequence a visit to the market is made, and the chequered walks between the stands and stalls are faithfully trod until the market basket is heaped with good things to tempt the appetite of half famished humanity. A good cook can always make a cheap dish appear rich and with a few nothings transform an ordinary plat into something excellent. The principal articles and the ingredients of complicated dishes are cheap, as will be seen from the subjoined figures. Fish are selling at rates moderate enough to place them within the reach of almost any one. Red snapper, red fish, blue fish and black fish sell at from 15 cents to 20 cents per pound, and bass and croppie are obtainable at from 10 cents to 30 cents apiece. The more substantial articles of diet are about the same. Choice roasts go at 12 1-2 cents per pound and roasts of a little inferior quality at 7 cents. Tenderloins and porter-house steaks are selling at 12 1-2 cents and round steaks from 8 to 10 cents; racks of mutton 10 cents, legs of mutton 8 cents; loins of veal 12 1-2 cents, racks of veal 10 cents, and sausages at 8 cents. Then come the vegetables, the prices of which are also moderate. Large fine cabbages, enough for the largest family, can be had for 10 cents apiece, and the Dutch cale for 5 cents. Other vegetables are selling: Parsnips, 25 cents per dozen; oyster plant, 20 cents per dozen; radishes, 15c per dozen; onions, 15c per dozen; sweet potatoes, 25c per peck; Bermudas, 15c per peck; butter beans, 50c per gallon; horse radish, $1 00 per gallon; celery, 40c per dozen; lettuce, 30c per dozen; chicory, 40c per dozen; spinage, 10c per peck; corn salad, 50c per peck, and soup bunches 5c apiece.

The game market is very brisk, and W. W. Judy, the leading dealer in this line, says that St. Louis is increasing every day as a distributing point. He furnishes the following quotations: Grouse $1 per pair, pheasants $1 25 per pair, canvas back ducks $1 50 per pair, mallards 40c per pair, teal 25c per pair, quail $2 per doz., English snipe $1 50 per doz., saddle of venison 20c per pound, steaks 25c per pound, rabbits 20c each.

Fruit is almost entirely out of season, though the juicy orange is just now coming in. These are selling at from 35 to 50c per dozen, and grapes from 20 to 30c per pound, according to class and quality.

The Beethoven Conservatory.

The latest announcement by the director of the Beethoven Conservatory affords a most gratifying and decisive evidence of the prosperity of that institution. Hitherto its work has all been accomplished by daylight, but in response to applications from those who cannot find time in ordinary business hours, Mr. Waldauer has made arrangements to receive pupils in the evening. We are sure that there are many persons desiring to study music who will be enabled to do so by this arrangement.

FASHION DECREES.

From the New York Mail.

Much patent leather is employed this fall for ladies' shoes.

Stripes have by no means disappeared from children's costumes.

The "washerwoman's overskirt" is worn with very showy dresses.

There is a tendency to increased length in trains accompanying evening dresses.

Red, brown, and gendarme-blue satin petticoats have appeared for fall and winter wearing.

Head trimming appears in all sorts of places. We shall not be surprised if it be seen shortly on table napkins.

The most fashionable low shoe for the house is so very low that it would appear difficult to keep it upon the foot.

Stockings are now of greater consequence, perhaps, in a lady's toilette than they have been since they were invented.

The fancy for red is displayed this season in cloaks made of fine scarlet cloth and trimmed with a new cloth called vermicelli.

Note paper with comic designs in bronze at the head of the page is a new wrinkle, but is not likely to be considered "good form."

Large sleeves form the conspicuous feature of the new cloaks this season, fur-trimmed garments taking precedence in that respect.

Street costumes are now generally made up with warm linings, so that a supplementary wrap may be dispensed with as long as possible.

High heels, with some fastastic elegantes, are covered with gold leaf or in gay color, and in some cases even mounted with satin plush or velvet.

Among the costumes of Surah silk now so fashionable, green is a popular color, and two shades, one of leaf and the other of emerald green, are much admired.

A present whim is placing a genuine spinning-wheel, or the smaller model of one, in the drawing-room, among other objects pertaining to a picturesque past.

The striped corduroy velvets can now be bought for one dollar a yard, and although, being all cotton, they soon get shabby, their low price admits of their being given away after brief wearing.

Many ladies have taken a fancy for knitting fancy silk stockings in artistic designs as Christmas and birthday gifts for gentleman, the material alone costing more than the stockings sold in the shops.

The charming fashion of the breakfast cap is one that young matrons may well adhere to, on the principle that the freshness of youth is never more apparent than when it masquerades in the garb of age.

Answering a double purpose, like the piece of furniture described by Goldsmith—"A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day"—is a new cloak pattern with a cape, which can be buttoned up so as to form a hood.

Ordinary petticoats for walking are made a little more ample, and are straight behind below the belt, a little fulness being supplied just above the hem. Gored sides and fronts remain in use, and the width of the skirt at the hem is from two and half to three yards.

The new embroidery selections for screen decorations include designs of the Anglo-Japanese school, in which parrots, parroquets, butterflies, odd flowers, dolphins and fishes of absurd form, together with unnatural trees, are made gorgeous in effect by their striking color-blending as well as their artistic grouping.

THE RIVER ROUTE.

Ten Feet of Water a Popular Demand in St. Louis.

How the Provision Trade Would Be Affected by a Deep Channel to Memphis.

The Mississippi River is the great natural highway along which the commerce of the whole continent ought to move. The watershed, stretching from the Appalachians to the Sierras, furnishes a natural and cheap means of transportation, penetrating into every part of this broad country, and making the water route emphatically the road to the sea-board. Every session of Congress has seen legislation looking to the improvement of the river, and every bill passed in its favor has been saddled with riders calling for the improvement of every ditch and every creek throughout the valley. The average Congressman is unable to see that the improvement must begin at the beginning. What good will it do the people of the Osage Valley, for instance, if the Osage River is locked and dammed from the source to the mouth if when they get their freight out they can not get it past the mouth? River improvement in the Mississippi Valley, to be rational, must begin with the Mississippi, and if the Western Congressmen will combine on fixing it first, it will be then eminently meet and just to go on with the tributary streams.

CAPTAIN HILL,

of Hill, Fontaine & Co., was met by a reporter to-day and asked what he thought about the water route. "If you can ever get the channel deep enough to New Orleans to carry all the freight we can gather here, St. Louis will become the greatest city on the continent."

"Well, do you think we will get ten feet of water this side of millennium?"

"I do. I think that the trade of this country is bound to follow the natural routes. It will be bound to go as God intended it should when he put the Mississippi River where he did. I tell you, sir, the Mississippi River is the Aorta of this continent; it is the great artery along which the commerce of the country must flow."

"What do you believe will be the effect upon the business of St. Louis when you get enough water in the river to carry off the freight?"

"I believe that we will spring into a trade the like of which has not yet been seen in this country. The river is the only protection which we have against railroad domination."

"In figures how will it effect St. Louis?"

"Well, if instead of paying a dollar to get a bale of cotton to New Orleans we could get it there for fifty cents, it is very evident we could drain the cotton out of a larger region. Our tributary territory would be increased as far as that fifty cents would bring us cotton. And it is the same thing with every business. Take provisions: a ten foot channel means half freights, or nearly half freights. Of course we could reach out into new country for the amount of the difference between what we pay now and what we will have to pay then."

"And competing routes?"

"With a full channel and plenty of water, there are no competing routes. The lake way is shut up half the time, and is an artificial one anyhow. By rail east, in the nature of things, cannot be so cheap. We will do the business of the whole valley if we only have water enough to get the trade away."

MILES SELLS.

Mr. Sells thought that a deep channel would decrease freight on provisions at least thirty-three and one-third per cent, and the effect of this would be at once apparent in largely increased receipts and shipments. "We have got the hogs here to feed the world, and the grain to feed the world, and the water to float them out. When there is water enough to move out what we grow in the Mississippi Valley St. Louis will reap a golden harvest."

CAPT. GEORGE H. REA,

president of the Mississippi Valley Transportation Company, was next approached.

"Capt. Rea," said the reporter, "what is the actual difference between river and rail rates?"

"How do you mean?"

"What is the actual cost per ton per mile by each route?"

After some figuring the Captain announced: "By river 2 mills, by rail 8."

"Do you think that a ten-foot channel is possible?"

"I think that seven and a half feet of water would be enough for all the purposes of trade."

THE CENSUS.

Some Timely Hints as to How Frauds Were Accomplished.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The new or second census of the city of St. Louis will in all probability be considered by the majority of the citizens of St. Louis just as erroneous and fraudulent as the first, unless men of practical experience, well-known in the city of St. Louis, are selected to assist Professor C. M. Woodward and the census is taken in such a manner that the correctness of the same can be proved to the satisfaction of every intelligent citizen.

The corrected census of Col. Salomon is a regular humbug and a greater fraud than the census itself. The names found by the letter-carriers and those reported by the citizens were added to the original, but without consulting the respective enumerators. The result of this blundering, stupid work is as follows:

To the 2,367 names reported by the enumerator of the Forty-sixth Precinct were added four names, viz.:

Ignatz Burg, white, male, fifty-seven years old.

Emma Lehmann, white, female, twenty years old.

C. Rebstock, white, male, twenty-two years old.

Mary Rebstock, white, female, nineteen years old.

Ignatz Burg is living at 1510 Buel street, Emma Lehmann at 1814 Closey street; both outside the Forty-sixth Precinct, and M. and Mary Rebstock moved in the district after the 1st day of June, after the census day.

The United States authorities or the Citizens' Committee ought to give the honest enumerators a chance to defend themselves by publishing how many names each enumerator has reported and how many were added afterwards by the revisor with and without the consent of the enumerator.

About the so-called experts and the young clerks of the Census Bureau in Washington, the correspondent of the Chicago Times writes that they will swallow almost anything and gives, as an example, the names of five enumerators who, in the year 1870, reported 1,400 names per day, notwithstanding that it is impossible for a man to average more than 400 names per day. The names of these very honest and efficient officers are:

W. J. Drumhill, who was paid for 26,923 names; I. H. Higgins, who was paid for 22,369 names; Hamilton Temple, who was paid for 25,814 names; David Blakely, who was paid for 33,274 names; James C. Johnson, who was paid for 20,623 names. Total, 129,003 names.

Mr. I. H. Higgins, one of those very honest Deputy Marshals, found among 2,000 inhabitants, whose names appear on fifty successive pages, only three bachelors, no widows, no widowers, neither widowers, only heads of families, their children and servants. The families averaged about five children and the given names are Kate, James, Susan, Mary, John. It always happened that there were just enough persons in each family to fill up a page.

The United States Census Bureau appears to be run by the same kind of men as are employed in the city's revenue department.

INFATUATED WITH A CHILD.

An Ancient Beau's Remarkable Devotion to a Little Girl.

From the London Hour.

About the year 1770 an Italian lady named Fagniani went to London with good introduction and was received in the first society. She was greatly admired by the wits and men of fashion, and after a time went back to her own country. In due course of time she paid other visits, but by and by it became a subject of remark that her little girl, who bore the pet name of "Mie-mie," and not her mamma, was the object of devotion of two celebrated men about town, the Duke of Queensberry, "Old Q," and Mr. George Selwyn. The proceedings of the latter became, in course of time, so extravagant and even ridiculous as to excite the concern of his rational friends. He adored this little creature; he wished to adopt, to buy her at a great price; he was wretched, almost to the verge of melancholy madness, in her absence, making vain appeals and taking every one into his confidence. All affected to sympathize and—laughed at him. He was, however, fortunate enough to secure as his agent one of the liviest, wittiest and, perhaps, most disreputable of the free clergymen who then "hung loose upon society"—Parson Warner, a rollicking, boisterous person, at the service of any gentleman of condition. This worthy agent was dispatched to Paris to try and arrange matters, and, no doubt, to tempt the Fagnianis with more handsome offers. They began to waver. Mme. Fagniani had now another child, which made the affair easier. The delighted Selwyn could not restrain himself any longer, and rushed over to Paris, really hoping to conclude matters. But after tantalizing hopes and delays the hapless wa found that he was as far off as ever from the accomplishment of his hopes. The parents would not consent. Mr. Selwyn remained lingering in Paris, his woes and his mournful fate attracting the attention of even the French. His English friends, kept informed of all the stages of the affair, affected to be indignant. The miserable man was wasting away—had lost his appetite: and the well-known English physician at Paris, Dr. Genu, assured him that, if he gave way any further to this infatuation, his reason would go. The family, dreading some outrageous step, at last thought it better to come to terms. Within a few days, strange to relate, all was happily settled and in a fortnight this wonderful child was carried off in triumph to Matson, her floating admirer's place in England. There she was installed as queen of the place, under care of Miss Selwyn. Every whim of hers was gratified. She was taken to Tunbridge, where she was exhibited in a coquettish Spanish hat and lace. The rollicking Warner was often bidden there and delighted his patron by his devotion to the little thing. In every letter was a postscript addressed to his "little queen" and signed "Your Snail." There she remained until gout and dropsy and old age began to overtake Mr. Selwyn, who died in the year 1791. Mie-mie inherited £33,000.

A Conscientious Texan.

From the New Orleans Democrat, Oct. 22.

About 4 o'clock on Saturday evening, the 9th inst., Mr. L. S. Woodward, a venerable Texan of threescore years and ten, with his daughter, in a wagon drawn by two mules, attempted to cross the International Railroad, about ten miles north of Austin, when, to his terror and astonishment, just as the mules were fairly on the track, the locomotive dashed down on a down grade, cutting off and taking with it one of the wheels of the wagon, the tongue and the two mules, but leaving Mr. Woodward and daughter behind unhurt. As soon as he could, the conductor stopped the train, found both mules dead, inquired the names of the unfortunates, and, promising to make it all right, came on to the city and reported the accident. Major Hoxie, who represents the International Company, called to pay the damages and tendered Mr. Woodward $500, which he refused, saying: "One hundred and seventy-five dollars will pay for the mules, and that is all I want."

A Nice Baby Show.

From the New York Tribune.

About 300 cherubs are now on exhibition at the Boston baby show at Horticultural Hall, including an Indian child, a Chinese infant, a double set of twins belonging to the proudest woman at the Hub, one set of colored triplets, and other attractions. The purpose of the show is purely moral and strictly educational. Fifty-five physicians are to visit the hall daily and give the mothers good, practical advice in regard to the food and clothing and general treatment of their infants. They will tell them that tight bandaging is wrong, and that it is better to run the risk of a child's catching cold by a draught of pure air than to have it starved and its blood diseased by foul, devitalized air.

CAPTS. LEATHERS and Tobin were interviewed by a Vicksburg Herald man a day or two ago about the race between their respective boats from New Orleans to Red Church. Old Push says he landed at Red Church for business reasons, while Tobin asserts that the Natchez sought refuge at the bank to save herself from being passed by the White under way.

MEMPHIS, 28: The Guiding Star, drawing 7 feet, passed south at sunset, adding nothing of interest here, but will fill out with cotton below. She lost two nights by bad weather below Cairo. The Kountz, for the Yazoo River, is here putting off 100 tons brought at 15a17c per cwt. A rise of 2 feet has occurred in White River, and it is now 5 feet deep all along. Better water is expected in Arkansas River. Freight on cotton from here to New Orleans is $1 per bale, and oil cake $3 50 per long ton.

CINCINNATI Commercial, 29: The R. F. Deval came up with a tow of empty barges. We understand that her Captain and owner is negotiating for the hull of a little steamer built at New Albany, but which has never been completed, but if purchased he will put a cargo box on it.....Dull on the levee yesterday, the only topic of discussion being the late cards published by Messrs. Royse and Getty, Sixth Ohio Veterans, relative to the proceedings of the "Boys in Blue." Lieut. Thomas S. Royse replies to Capt. W. S. Getty, in to-day's Commercial. There's no blood on the moon.

NEW ORLEANS Democrat, 28: There are now running from New Orleans to Jacksonport, on White River, the steamers Red Cloud and Bedford, which connect with small steamers running on Upper White River to Batesville and on Black River to Pocahontas and Powhatan, and we hope soon to see more boats put in the trade. Much of the present trouble in Red River is attributable to the neglect in closing Tone's bayou. With the bayou closed, and five feet of water at Shreveport, there is good water all the way down. Capt. J. W. Blanks telegraphed yesterday from Natchez that most of the freight on the Little Bob B. was saved, and that the Captain thought she would break in two.

Sarah Bernhardt's Trunks.

From the N. Y. Sun.

Mlle. Bernhardt's trunks, boxes and packages, filling two large express wagons, were received by Mr. Maze Edwards, the manager's secretary, at Booth's Theater, at 2 o'clock. The array created a panic among the scene shifters. A rehearsal was in progress, and the immense outfit had to be piled away. Mr. Edwards was congratulating himself on having done his work well, when two Frenchmen entered. When they saw the trunks and boxes piled up they nearly went into a fit. One of the men was Bernhardt's valet, the other an attendant. They had come with the keys of the trunks, to open them, in order to assist the Custom-house inspectors. Mr. Edwards found the inspector in charge, and was again congratulating himself on having done well, when there was a second commotion, and Mlle. Bernhardt stood before him. The actress assumed an attitude of despair as she viewed the pyramid of trunks. Mr. Edwards explained to her that to-day the trunks would be carefully placed on the stage and carefully examined. The Custom-house officers treated Mlle. Bernhardt with great courtesy, and when she asked to be allowed to take to the hotel three trunks which she said contained only articles of dress for her private use, the officials merely gazed with admiration on the contents, and the three trunks were quickly removed to her apartments. A day will soon be set for a public exhibition of her wardrobe, paintings and other treasures.

YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS.

How Shall They be Punished Without Danger of Making Them Worse?

From the New York World.

Much attention is now being given in England to the treatment of boys and girls guilty of offenses against the law. Lord Derby and Lord Houghton have recently spoken on the subject, the former in the Manchester Town Hall. Lord Derby believes that in no case should boys under fourteen years of age be sent to prison, that extended powers should be given to magistrates to sentence boys to moderate corporal punishment, and that distinct and separate places of detention should be provided for young offenders, "so that they shall not escape punishment altogether merely because it is undesirable to send them to jail." The St. James Gazette, in some seemingly unjustifiable strictures upon Lord Derby's address, the purpose of which was particularly to call attention to the bad results of confining young boys with old and hardened criminals whose influence more than offsets the reformatory effects of imprisonment, asks "what real difference there is between 'a place of detention' and a prison. Who would think that it made the smallest difference as to a boy's character and prospects in life whether the prison in which he was confined was or was not called a reformatory?" As a matter of fact it would make a very great difference in a boy's prospects in life whether it should be said of him that he was "a jailbird" or had merely been in a reformatory or house of refuge. This as a matter of repute. As a matter of positive influences, a boy who should have been confined in company with adult offenders would be very likely to have his criminal propensities fostered and trained in a way disastrous to himself and dangerous to the community. The reformation of old criminals is a thing hardly to be looked for—certainly not in one instance out of a hundred; but the case is different with children generally, the inborn villainy of young tigers like Jesse Pomeroy, or the girl of thirteen years who was recently tried at Lincoln before Lord Chief Baron Pollock for deliberately poisoning a baby whom she nursed, being wholly exceptional. In the long run the true rule will doubtless be found to be leniency and intelligent attempts at reformation in dealing with children, and rigorous confinement for the good of society in the case of hardened adult offenders.

Going Back to China.

From the New York Tribune.

As many as 850 Mongolians left San Francisco a fortnight ago on the City of Peking for the Flowery Kingdom. The causes of this unexpected exodus are not clear. Several Chinese merchants explained it in this way: There is a lack of employment in California, and it is cheaper to send the unemployed Chinamen back to their own country than to keep them in San Francisco. This solution of the problem was discredited along the wharf, and it was suggested that improvements are contemplated by the Chinese Government, and that with an object of securing skilled Chinese laborers, who had the advantage of witnessing the modus operandi of Americans, the agents of the Six Companies had been asked to procure the services of local workmen in various grades, and contract with them in the name of the home Government. This view of the case was affirmed by one of their own number, who positively refused to give his name, remarking that he knew whereof he spoke. Another explanation is that at this season of the year the Chinese avail themselves of the opportunity of returning some time in advance of the New Year, which is usually devoted to an interchange of courtesies among families. There was one particularly striking feature about the assemblage on the wharf, however, which, when the usual customs in vogue among the Chinese are remembered, would, in a measure, account for their large number.

Spotted Like a Leopard.

From the Montezuma Weekly.

Montezuma has two living curiosities, to-wit: Vidle Hunter, a genuine Albino, about forty years old, and Henry Williams, a spotted man. Hunter is the son of perfectly black parents. He has all the marks of a thoroughbred African, thick lips, flat nose and feet and woolly hair. He is perfectly white, white hair and pink eyes. He sees better at night than in daytime. He was a slave, and belonged to John A. Hunter. Wiley is about fifty-five years old, and is as spotted as a leopard, black and white. He was a slave and belonged to Leroy Wiley.

THE great hunt for the forger continues. Can it be possible that the Republican managers are making a bluff?

FOR a party that has recently been bereft of over eleven thousand illegal voters, the Republican party of St. Louis is keeping mighty quiet. There should be mingled shouts of lamentation and indignation.

A REPUBLICAN named Archer, a bank forger, committed suicide yesterday near Parkersburg, West Virginia. He should have confessed the Garfield letter before wasting himself, thereby relieving his party of its embarrassments.

CONGRESSMAN CHITTENDEN'S reward of $5,000 for the discovery of the forger of the Chinese labor letter is still standing. We will pay the same amount for the conviction of the man who forged those entries on Oakes Ames' memorandum book.

THERE seems to be no difficulty about finding experts to swear that the Garfield-Morey letter is a forgery. Old Bill Jones, it will be remembered, once swore in court that he writ the Declaration of Independence. The experts are valuable citizens.

MR. ALLEN, who is running for Congress against Crisp and Van Horn in the Eighth District, has subjected himself to some prejudice by asking for United States Deputy Marshals to supervise the election. It is claimed that this is not a fashionable thing for a Democrat to do.

MR. HAYES has been quite kind to St. Louis. He not only declines to stop and visit us on his way East, but he has chosen another route and don't even propose to pass through our tunnel. The money that would have been spent in his entertainment can be given to the poor.

THE mother of H. L. Morey, who resides at Lynn, Mass., swears that her son used to visit her frequently at that point until about eleven months ago, but since that time she has known nothing of his whereabouts. If he is dead, as alleged, this clause of the affidavit may be said to be judicious.

A GOOD many Democrats were not pleased with our political prognostications the other day. The fact is, when the truth is big within us we can't help letting it out. Persons who survive until next Tuesday will probably be impressed with the wonderful breadth of our political information.

THE Cincinnati Gazette proclaims with all the gleeful emphasis of double leads that Neal Dow, the Prohibition candidate for President, has withdrawn in favor of the Republican standard-bearer. This is about as important as would be the announcement that Garfield had purchased a new pair of trowsers.

AFTER tremendous bluster the St. Louis Tariff Club has resolved to leave it optional with the voters of the First District as to whom they will support for Congress. This is kind on the part of the T. C., and it is presumed that this favor will be extended to the electors of the other districts in due time.

ONE of the points brought forward to establish the forgery of the Garfield letter is that the plural of company is incorrectly spelled. The alleged forger, Mr. Philp, has been a journalist for years, and there is no reason for believing that he can't spell as well as Garfield. Let's give him the benefit of the doubt.

IT is too late now for the Democrats to gain anything by preaching the sound doctrine of "tariff for revenue only," but the folly of putting a good clause in the platform and then running away from it in the most cowardly manner has been so thoroughly demonstrated that it will hardly be repeated four years hence.

IF a mother's tender affidavit is worth anything, then it has been well established that there was such a person as H. L. Morey in Massachusetts eleven years ago. A man named H. L. Morey has been elected to Congress as a Republican in the Third Ohio District, but he was never identified with the sacred cause of Labor.

JOHN KELLY'S organ, the New York Express, is making bitter warfare on James Gordon Bennett, of the Herald. The record in the case of Justine Pearlstrome, housekeeper, alleging rape, is made public for the first time. Luckily Mr. Bennett has not gone to Europe yet and he will doubtless take a hand in the discussion with that fascinating grace that has always distinguished him.

"A VICTORY for Garfield," says the Globe-Democrat this morning, "is a victory for Grant." This seems to confirm the report of the bargain between Conkling, representing the Noble 306, and the man of Mentor. In case of victory, the Grant rings will be restored to office and the skim-milk civil service reformers of the Hayes school will extract the glory.

MR. ROSENBLATT expressed some grief at Pickwick Hall last night over the loss of the illegal colored voters who were registered for duty in the Second District, and considerable sympathy for him was manifested upon the part of the audience. But the indignation was not impressive. It was the kind that the thief, with stolen goods on his person, manifests when he feels the officer's grip on his coat-collar.

THE Anzeiger (circulation less than 3,000) thinks that Mr. John D. Johnson, the Republican candidate for Circuit Judge, is a better lawyer than Mr. Horner, and should, therefore, be elected. This is a question upon which the small-souled editor of the Anzeiger is not the best judge. It is only the opinion of a notoriously erratic, cranky, jealous, conceited, contracted, small-minded individual, who is at war with his own malicious nature, who thinks everybody is as mean and dirty as he is and whose queer Democracy was shown when he prayed that the Republicans should succeed in Maine over the Fusion last month. Mr. Johnson is doubtless a very clever gentleman and a good lawyer. But so, it is conceded, is Mr. Horner. And as between two equally clever men every Democrat should certainly give the preference to the candidate of his own party.

FRAUD VS. FREEDOM.

Garfield represents fraud—false issues, false leaders, false principles, false practices, false elections, false laws, false office-holders, a false tariff, a false money aristocracy, a false Union—a false Republic.

Hancock represents peace, reconciliation and harmony, true patriotism, true prosperity and a true people's as against a mere class or sectional Government—a real Republic!

The question is whether we want a money aristocracy to govern this country—whether we want a real or a sham Republic.

DAN ABLE FOR SENATOR.

Much as we disagree with the Globe-Democrat on nearly everything, and much as we desire the defeat of Republican candidates wherever any principle is involved, we can, for a wonder, fully indorse the following from to-day's G.-D:

Mr. Henry L. Rogers is the Republican nominee for the State Senate from the Thirty-third District, composed of the Eighth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-third and Twenty-eighth Wards. He is a man of high character, in every way suited to the position, and having served acceptably in the lower house, has had experience which will be of value to him. His competitor is Mr. Dan Able, who has also had experience at Jefferson, but not of a character calculated to enhance his value as a legislator.

True. Every word true to the letter, though not half of the whole truth.

Mr. Rogers is in every way better fitted to represent the city and the public interests. Mr. Able is infinitely better fitted to represent the lobby and private interests.

No thinking, sensible Democrat should hesitate to scratch an objectionable name from his ticket. The first fundamental rule of Democracy is that unfit or unworthy men should neither be nominated by trickery nor elected by party pressure or indifference.

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

Instead of going to an asylum for imbeciles or inebriates, James J. Stanton wants to go to the Legislature. His election would not only be an injury and disgrace to the city, but make her ridiculous before the whole State. Respectable Democrats of the First, Third, Tenth and Seventeenth Wards will do well to scratch Stanton.

John W. Drake wants to be Constable of the Second Ward. He is notoriously unfit to hold that or any office. He is self-nominated and represents nobody in the world but a suspicious ring of small politicians who claim to own in fee simple the primary ballot boxes of the Second Ward. Scratch him!

Dan Able wants to be State Senator. He is a very clever fellow personally, but politically he represents nothing except what is bad. He runs with the machine, was nominated by the worst ring influence of this city, and his election would simply mean a lobbyist inside the Senate. Scratch him!

The first duty of true Democracy is to vote for no ringsters, tricksters or jobbers—for no man who uses politics for a living and parties as a protective shield!

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

Second District Police Court.

Only sixteen prisoners responded to the call of the Marshal in the Second District Court this morning, seven of whom were arrested for selling lottery policies. Each of these succeeded in having their cases continued until November 6. Four cases of violation of the ordinance relating to meat-shops were dismissed for want of sufficient evidence. For disturbing the peace John Daly and Henry Krenning were each fined the costs. Mary Monahan for the same offense was assessed $5. Martin Gerlach, who was arrested for loitering around corners, has his case continued until November 1.

OVER-CROWDED CHARITIES.

What Those Whom it May Concern Have to Say About the Grand Jury.

The Insane Asylum and the Poor-House, Their Capacity and Their Condition.

The report of the condition of the Insane Asylum and the Poor-house given by the grand jury has excited considerable interest throughout the city. The statements are made that the necessity is evident for the erection by the city of an infirmary for the sick and diseased inmates of the Insane Asylum, for a proper course of nursing and to keep the sick and the well apart. They believe that a temporary sacrifice ought to have been made either of the billiard room, library, reception room, chapel or ball room for an infirmary in the Coffin case. They also report that they found the Poor-house in an over-crowded condition, and they recommend that something be done at once to relieve the pressure in the two institutions and to secure for the inmates the treatment for which charitable and human institutions were supposed to be created. With these charges as a text a POST-DISPATCH reporter waited upon a gentleman prominent in the late investigation, and a member of the Board of Charity Commissioners, and asked him what he thought about the grand jury's report. Mr. McGrath had not read the report, and the scribe went over the Insane Asylum part of it with him. "This, Mr. McGrath, is rather different from the report of your examination," said the reporter.

"It is different because the ground we went over is different; there were certain charges brought which we investigated and disproved."

"I didn't understand that it was that way. I thought you inquired into Mrs. Coffin's death?"

"We learned, sir, that everything that could be done for that woman was done. Her family were perfectly satisfied with her treatment and acknowledged that she could not have been as well cared for at home."

"How large was the room in which Mrs. Coffin was?"

"I could not say exactly, about eighteen by eighteen, I suppose, and there were eight patients confined in the room?"

"Yes."

A rapid mental calculation by cube root would give each of these patients a space equal to a cell 7x8 feet each way. "Is there enough ventilation?" queried the reporter.

"Oh, certainly, there are windows in the room and a large door."

"But the grand jury says—"

"I don't care what the grand jury says. This case is one that has been thoroughly sifted. No exception was taken to a person with an offensive disease, such as Mrs. Coffin had, occupying a room with seven other patients. Her cancer was only offensive while it was being dressed. At other times there was no bad odor. And while it was being dressed there were no patients in the room. I have been in the apartment myself while she was there and there was no stench. I have been in all great asylums and hospitals in the country, and ours is cleaner and sweeter than any of them."

"Would it be possible to change either of the other apartments mentioned into an infirmary?"

"Now that is where the idiocy of the report shows itself. None of the apartments named can be dispensed with at all, they are absolutely essential to the treatment of the insane."

"How about that part of the report which states that when the patients are locked up for the night their only means of communication with the watchmen is by pounding on the door, and that there are only two watchmen for the whole asylum."

"I think that that is all right."

"But how much pounding could a woman dying with cancer do?"

"Her bed was right by the door, and a very slight noise can be heard a great distance in the silence of the night amid those echoing corridors."

HEALTH COMMISSIONER FRANCIS

was asked what he thought about the grand jury report.

"I think," he said, "that there isn't much difference between it and my printed report. I referred then to the urgent necessity for an infirmary at the Insane Asylum. But I am going to improvise one now at once. I don't want any row of this kind on my hands."

"What will an infirmary cost?"

"Well, we can get one up for $2,500. I asked for $7,000, and it would take that much to build the kind of one we ought to have."

"Could any of the apartments named in the report be used as an infirmary?"

"Well, they are hardly practicable; you see, even if we could spare them for that purpose there are not water facilities upon the top floor where these rooms are. Indeed, the top floor of the Insane Asylum is about as much use to us as the loft of this City Hall is to the city. The trouble has been that too much money was spent at that place for ornament. That dome, for instance, is very pretty, but it costs money that could have been better used in other places."

"How many patients was the asylum calculated for?"

"Two hundred or two hundred and fifty."

"And how many have you out there now?"

"Three hundred and forty-eight, and we have had as high as three hundred and sixty-five."

"Well, isn't that too much?"

"Certainly it is, but what can we do? There are in all 675 patients in the asylum and the insane wards at the Poor-house. You can't house them and take care of them all at the asylum."

"How many people are there at the Poor-house?"

"Six hundred and twenty to-day. It was built for about 360."

"Then both those institutions are badly overcrowded?"

"They are, but nothing can be done without more money. Even the appropriation which we had was partly spent in repairing damage done by the storm last June. I have only this to say, however. We will have an infirmary out there as shortly as possible. The plans have been made already and an estimate made of the cost. It will be paid out of the general appropriation."

The reporter then asked several well posted gentlemen in the real estate business about the comparative crowding of the tenement houses and the city's eleemosynary institutions, and found the invariable opinion to be that the tenement houses through the town will show more cubic feet of space to the inhabitant than either the Asylum or the Poor-house.

Supervisor Woodward and His Work.

The office of the Supervisor of the Census presented a busy scene again to-day. Before the doors were open the applicants were on hand, and before the worthy spectacled mathematical professor could adjust his glasses and remove his ulster he was besieged on all sides. Until about noon there was a continuous file of applicants leading from the door through the outer room into the sanctum of the Supervisor. It takes several minutes to put the necessary questions to each applicant, so that the work is very tedious. About 200 applicants were examined to-day up to 2 o'clock, and of these 120 were appointed, making a total now appointed of 320. At least 100 more will be needed, so that applicants are still in abundance of time. When the desired number are obtained, Professor Woodward and the Advisory Committee of citizens will go all over the lists carefully, and drop off any undesirable names that may be found. The examination now given is so hurried that the Supervisor is apt to be misled and appoint some few black sheep. The whole force ought to be in working order the day after election. The actual enumeration of citizens will begin Monday, November 8. The Executive Committe of citizens, which has on its hands the majority and minority reports of the Washington committee, have as yet done nothing. The Finance Committee will get to work on the money-raising question immediately after the election.

TRYING THE TYROS.

Examination of Applicants for Admission to the Bar—A Petition Filed Against a Colored Candidate.

The multiplicity of lawyers can not be better exemplified than by a knowledge of the number of present students and the frequency of applications for membership to the bar. This morning in Judge Lindley's court there appeared ten applicants, who were subjected to a most rigorous examination. Three lawyers, Horatio D. Wood, A. W. Crane and John W. Dryden, were the examining committee, and Judges Lindley, Boyle and Thayer presided. The applicants were: Bernard J. Kelly, A. Alpeora Bradley, colored, W. E. Hughes, Hannibal Loeny, E. L. Johnson, W. H. Sampson, Henry M. Richard, M. F. Sloan, Chapel O. Stanton and Louis Nahan. Mr. Wood first questioned the gentlemen, and was followed by Messrs. Crane and Dryden in turn. Two or three of the applicants were noticeably embarrassed, and any shortcomings may be attributed to that source, as on the whole they displayed a very good knowledge of the law and evidenced the result of considerable attention and study. Shortly after the commencement of the examination a petition was submitted to the court, protesting against the admission of A. Alpeora Bradley. The document is signed by Benjamin R. Davenport, H. G. McIntyre and William L. Hills, and relates that A. Alpeora Bradley is unworthy of admission to the bar on account of character. It alleges that he was expelled from the State Senate of Georgia for misdemeanors.

Mr. Davenport, one of the lawyers signing the petition, was interviewed by a POST-DISPATCH reporter with the following result:

"Do you know Mr. Bradley?"

"Yes. I know that he was one of the colored members of the Georgia Legislature. He was in the Senate, and I don't think any man in that body was more utterly detested by the people of Georgia than was Bradley."

"Did he do anything to merit this dislike?"

"Yes; he shamefully vilified the white people. He was expelled from the Senate by a Federal Judge and his brother Republicans made no move in his favor. As soon as I saw him among the applicants, I was in favor of protesting against his admission on these grounds. In our petition we informed the Judges that we could substantiate our charges."

Mr. Bradley says that he was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. The examination is still proceeding, and no action has been taken by the Judges in the matter.

REAL ESTATE.

Not Enough Houses in Town to Supply the Demand.

At present the real estate market, as compared with its condition a few weeks ago, is quite dull. This is said by several real estate agents to be owing to the near approach of the election. After that the activity which has throughout the season characterized the business, they expect will be revived and the market will again "boom." Just before an election there is always a lull in the market, although the demand for small houses to rent is still as strong as ever, and there are far from being enough of that class in the hands of the real estate agents to supply those who apply for them. There is also a pretty steady demand for houses commanding over $600 a year rent, and these are far more plentiful than those of the first named class. Very few sales of real estate are taking place just now. One real estate agent said that the reason of this was that real estate of every description had of late years, since the panic, fallen into the hands of capitalists who had loaned money on it and foreclosed their mortgages. They were now holding the property at pretty stiff prices, and were independent enough to continue doing so.

BELLEVILLE.

James Higgans was conveyed to the County Hospital to-day from East St. Louis.

The Democracy in the vicinity of Reif Station will hold a mass meeting at the station to-night.

The Democratic party of Belleville will have a grand rally and torch-light procession at French Village to-night.

The St. Claire County Central Committee held a regular meeting this morning and pronounced the Democratic prospects in this district as very favorable.

A Pastor's Visit.

Falconer, late pastor of the North Presbyterian Church, of this city, but now connected with a Presbyterian church in Springfield, Ohio, is in St. Louis on a short visit to his former field of labor. He will preach in his old pulpit to-morrow morning, and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock will administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Dr. Falconer was warmly welcomed by his former parishioners, all of whom keenly feel the loss of his untiring efforts in their behalf, and wish him God-speed in his new field of labor.

Motion Day.

A motion to withdraw a plea of guilty and for a new trial in the case of Henry Brainard, alias Bohnert, who was sentenced to six months in the Work-house on a charge of abandoning his wife, was overruled. A similar motion in the case of Wm. F. Day, sentenced to nine months in the Work-house for stealing a double set of harness from B. R. Canthorn, was also overruled. In the assault and battery case of Bertha Herman who was prosecuted by Laura Hoffman, the jail sentence was comuted to a fine of $35 and costs.

FOREIGN FLASHES.

Albanians to Be Arrested by the Turks.

The Disastrous Storm of Thursday in England—Notes from All Over the World.

Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 30.—The approaching trials of the Nihilists will be the most important that have yet taken place. Among the accused are the alleged authors of the explosions on the Moscow Railway and at the Winter Palace, the supposed designer of the Alexandroski dynamite mine, and the persons who attended the Nihilist Congresses at Lipetsk and Tamboff, where the above attempts against the life of the Czar were resolved upon. Another prisoner to be tried is the man said to have given the Nihilist committee all his property, amounting to 170,000 roubles, and who was tried at Odessa in 1879.

England.

LONDON, October 30.—In the terrific storm Thursday and yesterday fifty vessels were wrecked between Spurr Point and Forrsea. Twelve vessels are stranded near Witherrsea. A vessel under bare poles drove through the new pier at Witherrsea and carried away fifty yards of the structure. At Horrsea a brig fouled with the new pier and damaged it to the extent of £3,000. There have been a large number of shipwrecks attended with great loss of life on various parts of the coast.

Eastern Europe.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 30.—The Sultan stated in a recent conversation that he thought the misunderstanding between the Porte and England was purely transitory and hoped friendly relations would soon be restored.

PREPARING AN ATTACK.

LONDON, October 30.—A dispatch from Castel Nuovo says seven thousand Montenegrins are preparing to collect at the camp near Antivari by Sunday night, and an attack on Dulcigno is again considered possible. A dispatch from Vienna states advices have been received from Budua that the Porte has begun to build 400 houses near Scutari for the inhabitants of Dulcigno who may prefer to leave that place after the cession is accomplished.

ARRESTING ALBANIANS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 30.—Dervish Pasha has been authorized by the Porte to arrest the Albanian Chiefs opposed to the transfer of Dulcigno and to remove from the district those who refuse to become Montenegrin subjects.

Egypt.

ALEXANDRIA, October 30.—The official journal publishes a communication totally denying that the slave traffic in Soudan has increased since the departure of Gen. Gordon.

France.

PARIS, October 30.—The banks and bankers interested in the Panama Canal have appointed their executive committee.

Italy.

ROME, October 30.—It is stated that Gen. Garibaldi has determined to attend the Mentana celebration if well enough.

MOUNT VESUVIUS.

NAPLES, October 30.—Mount Vesuvius continues in active eruption and streams of lava are flowing down the western side.

MASSACRING MESSAGES.

A Telegraph Messenger Arrested on a Charge of Extensive Crookedness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, NEB., October 30.—Sam. Sincere, messenger of the American Union Telegraph Company, was arrested to-day for destroying messages in transit, appropriating funds and forging receipts. He has been in the habit, it seems, of conveying messages received by the American Union for points west of Omaha to the Western Union and Atlantic and Pacific offices, to be forwarded to the office of delivery with the necessary funds to pay charges, and instead of sending would destroy the messages and appropriate the funds and forge a receipt, except when the message was highly important or required an answer and he deemed it too risky to stop it. This has been going on for some time and explains why so many messages by this line have failed to reach their destination. Sincere was formerly an employe of the Western Union, where he was suspected of being a little crooked and was discharged. His parents reside in the city. The examination will doubtless show his depredations are quite extensive.

The Banks' Statement.

NEW YORK, October 30.—The weekly statement of the associated banks, issued from the Clearing-house to-day, shows the following changes: Loans increase, $836,900; specie increase, $758,500; legal tenders decrease, $142,600; deposits increase, $5,751,100; circulation decrease, $54,100; reserve increase, $178,125. Banks now hold $3,743,575 in excess of the legal requirements.

Killed.

MATEWAN, N. J., October 30.—John Hadly and Albert Bray were killed by the caving of clay pits.

Gold.

NEW YORK, October 30.—Steamship Mosel, from Europe, brought $720,200 in French gold coin.

SOLID SENTIMENTS.

Hancock Wishes No Coerced Votes Cast for Him.

NEW YORK, October 30.—A number of veterans called upon Gen. Hancock, and in the course of conversation Col. Cavanaugh remarked:

"The course being pursued by many Republican manufacturers to coerce their employes into voting the Republican ticket cannot, I think, be too strongly deprecated."

"I have yet to learn," said General Hancock, "of any Democratic, Independent or other manufacturers desirous of changing the present administration of the Government who have pursued that course. The coercion of voters affects the manhood of the people, and I would wish no coerced votes cast for me. If the employed men have not the courage to resist the interference with their freedom at the ballot box it will not be long before they will be driven to the polls, if any polls should then exist. The ballot box should be guarded and the greater the danger the stronger should be the guard.

LIBERTY IS A PRICELESS TREASURE, gained only through great trials, and if once lost it can only be regained by trials still greater. The purity of the ballot-box is the safeguard of liberty, and when once secured it should be the duty of every voter to use his best efforts to preserve that purity."

To a deputation of a Hancock and English Club, composed of workmen in the Ansonia Clock Works, General Hancock said: "If the South is solid to-day it is simply solid in trying to get in harmony with the rest of the Union. We shall find how solid it is after next Tuesday. If the Democratic party should succeed it will become naturally divided upon Federal as well as local issues, and its solidity in the South will be broken. The colored race will side with the several factions. Each will see that their colored adherents suffer no obstructions in voting. In this one of the hoped-for results of the war will be fully attained. Much of the prosperity now enjoyed by the South is due to the purchases of Southern merchants, who last season bought goods to an extent unparalleled since the war. This was due to the great cotton crop of the South; to the desire of the Southern people to claim affiliation with the North and purchase its manufactures and products instead of sending to foreign countries for them, thereby creating business for foreign lines of steamships. We have now an opportunity to settle all questions arising out of the late strife by an exercise of charity, good will and brotherly feeling which it is to the interest of the Northern people not to disregard."

A Murderer Arrested.

MIDDLETOWN, O., October 30.—Thomas Johnson, suspected of the murder of Patrick Daley on Tuesday last, and who was supposed to have fled, was this morning arrested here and taken immediately to Hamilton. He had concealed himself in a sewer, but was compelled by the rising water from this morning's rain to come out.

A Disabled Steamer.

BOSTON, October 30.—The Steamer Sidinian from Gibralter arrived here with three passengers of the steamer Joseph Ferens, spoken at sea, disabled.

MONEY.

Bank clearings for the past week show a falling off of over $1,200,000 as compared with the preceding week, but are $3,400,000 larger than the same week last year, while clearings for October are $14,650,000 ahead of corresponding period last year.

Business was fairly active at the banks to-day, showing the usual Saturday increase in most departments; for instance, counter transactions. Discounting was liberal for nearly all branches of trade, and good paper was taken at unchanged rates—8 per cent on time and 6 per cent on call. New York exchange was very dull and weak at $1 25@1 50 discount per $1,000.

Chicago Notes.—There are symptoms of a corner in barley for this month. It is reported that a syndicate has been formed for controlling the Timothy seed market.

The stock of wheat in this market reaches 1,563,249 bushels to-day, an increase of 235,952 bushels in a week. Of this stock 1,001,171 bushels were No. 2 red. Corn has decreased 41,069 bushels in the same time.

The Markets.

MORNING BOARD.

Flour dull and unchanged. Demand light and movement small. We quote: Fancy $5 20 @5 55; choice $4 90@5 10; family $4 60@4 80; xxx $4 25@4 50; xx $3 65@3 90; x $3 30@3 45; superfine $3 10@3 25; fine $2 65 @2 85.

Wheat—Still on the ragged edge of uncertainty, a lower and weak market at the opening and for some time subsequently being followed by a rally and advance, so that at the close prices were generally better than yesterday. Grapes moved actively, No. 2 selling strictly fresh at $1 00½@1 00⅝—late $1 00½ bid—and regular at $1; Eastern shippers bought freely of No. 3 red at 93½@93¾ this and 93½@93⅞ east side, and so sharply did they compete for No. 4 that it ran up in price from 88 to 88⅞; rejected sold to same buyers at 84; Mediterranean taken for milling at 98 for No. 2 and 93¾ for No. 3. Futures opened lower and eased off a fraction more, with a slow market, but later on stiffened up with a quickened demand, closing firm. CATTLE—Again the same old, old story to relate, namely, scant offerings and no business in consequence. This is getting rather monotonous, but we must stick to the truth. The few car loads of cattle in the pens this morning, mainly of mixed butchers' stuff, found ready disposal at strong prices. Notwithstanding this is the closing day of the calendar week, buyers wanted stock. Transactions were altogether of a retail character. The prospects for the coming week as regards demand quite flattering, and do doubt prices will be well sustained in everything that is decent. Milch cows with calves scarce. Yesterday afternoon there was nothing done for want of stock. Ruling quotations steady.

THEATRICAL BUSINESS.

How it is Affected by the Presidential Campaign.

What Local Managers Say of the October Business.

During the Presidential campaign every manner of business and pursuit is more or less affected. Ordinary municipal or State elections produce a certain amount of excitement, but they by no means compare with the deep interest taken in Presidential contests. The feeling of excitement attendant upon the quadrennial political fight pervades every class, and almost every individual in the vast commonwealth is enthused to a certain degree. Amusements lose their charm, balls and parties are less frequent, and the great care and thought-dispersing mediums—the theaters—signify show a falling off in the attendance. The men are out listening to political harangues, attending ward meetings or bobnobbing with Major so-and-so or Judge this or that, in the hope of fixing things" for their favorites. The ladies, therefore, deprived of their escorts, are forced to remain at home, but the play goes on all the time. To just what an extent theaters are affected by elections is a question difficult to determine, but that they are affected is a patent fact. The month of October is usually, that is, in Presidential years, the dullest of the season. In those States where elections are held during that month the theaters always play to a losing business. Here, in St. Louis, the case is not quite so bad, yet managers invariably calculate on poor houses in October, especially the last two weeks.

A reporter visited the several theaters in relation to this subject, and, though the opinions obtained are somewhat varied, yet they all express substantially the same.

MR. ED. ZIMMERMAN,

of Pope's, remarked:

"I wish the whole thing was over. I don't take any interest in politics, and never cast a vote in my life. The interest other people take in elections is enough, and, of course the theaters are affected."

"Has there been much difference in the houses lately?"

"Yes, and a very appreciable one, too. We expected it, as political shows will always catch the crowd about this time. I don't know whether they are paying the legitimate in politics or not; but there's plenty of sensational matter in the side-shows, and the regular business must take a back seat."

"Has this year been any worse than others?"

"Well, I can't speak as to St. Louis in that particular, because I was on the road during previous Presidential campaigns, but I don't think there is much difference."

"How is the business in other places?"

"As far as I can learn, it is dull everywhere. In Indiana the very best attractions, which always draw good houses, were very sparingly patronized. Managers say that the same has been and is the case everywhere else."

MR. PAT SHORT

thought that theaters are affected by political excitement, but he said:

"We have no reason to complain. We usually get fine attractions about this time, and the people will come to see them, whether politics bother them or not. Four years ago we did an excellent business with Chanfrau. He filled a two weeks' engagement at the Olympic and I don't think we did so much business at any other time during the season. He was here just about this time. We have McKinnigh now, and he is having excellent houses, but still it is not as good as it would be at another time, when so formidable an opposition was not operating."

"How is the month of October generally, during general elections?"

"It is duller than others, and I attribute it to politics. This year everything has been prosperous, and if it were not for the election we would have to turn away people every night."

"How do managers speak of other places?"

"In Indiana, Ohio and New York, the business has been duller than it was ever known. These are close States, and, of course, the excitement runs higher."

MR. GEORGE M'MANUS,

the presiding genius in the box at De Bar's, cynically remarked: "The gentlemen about this time take a great deal of interest in discussing campaign affairs, etc., and the ladies are compelled to stay at home. We would have the house full every night if the gentlemen didn't get full themselves and refuse to escort the ladies."

C. H. BLECAN, M. D., of Minneapolis, Minn., says: "I saw HUNT'S REMEDY used in a case of Dropsy with perfect success. I did not treat the patient, but four attending physicians had given up the case as hopeless. HUNT'S REMEDY was then used with perfect success, and the patient is well. I shall give HUNT'S REMEDY in Dropsical and Kidney Diseases."

TUESDAY'S TICKETS.

Who the Men Are the Citizens of St. Louis Will Vote For.

Congressional, State, City, Legislative and Other Tickets in the Field.

The Democratic, Republican and Greenback Nominees Whose Fate Will Be Sealed on the 2d Prox.

As the election takes place next Tuesday and many of the candidates on both tickets are unknown to many St. Louisans, the POST-DISPATCH takes this means of introducing the one to the other. First in immediate interest are the Congressional Candidates.

DEMOCRATIC.

First in order is presented Hon. Martin L. Clardy, the Romeo of the First District jungle. He is a young man, not over thirty-five, very tall and slender, deep dark eyes, and a moustache like the shadow of a great sorrow. He bears little resemblance to the cartoons made of him in the comic papers. He is essentially not "Clodhopper Clardy" as the hellbounds of the opposition have frequently dubbed him. Mr. Clardy is in St. Louis frequently and stops at the Lacede. He has circulated quite generally in the city portion of his district this fall. During the last session of Congress, Mr. Clardy was quite a valuable representative of Western river interests.

Thomas Allen is a character so thoroughly known that description of him is almost unnecessary. Although age has crept over him, his eye is still bright and his step elastic. As he walks through the streets, wearing a silk hat that needs blacking, and with his heavy coat well buttoned up to his chin, he would not be taken for a millionaire sixty-seven years of age. His face generally wears a preoccupied expression, for his interests are many and great. During the campaign he has acquired a sort of hunted look and he turns corners cautiously that he may not fall into the hands of a committee from the "Stand and Deliver Campaign Club," who have ball or festival tickets to sell.

R. Graham Frost is a familiar figure on the streets. He is twenty-nine years of age and was, two years ago, the youngest member of Congress. He is much older now than he was then. In 1876 and '78 he was a picnic for the bleeding clubs and a young fowl was never so thoroughly plucked as he was. But now he has learned to stand between the Independent Rangers, or the Frost Guards and his purse, and will be elected by votes that are not purchased.

REPUBLICAN.

Thomas C. Fletcher, Mr. Calrdy's opponent, is a pleasant looking, white-bearded old gentleman nearly in the sixties. He was a soldier in the war and shows his martial training. He was Governor of Missiouri from 1864 to 1868, and was elected while in the army. He is smooth-spoken, a good lawyer, and leads a devoted constituency.

M. A. Rosenblatt, the gentleman who insists upon the martyrdom of defeat in the Second District, is in the prime of life, with good clear complexion, and eyes and hair as dark as night. He has been City Collector since 1877, and his term of office expires next spring. Before going into politics he was in the jewelry business, to which he contemplates returning.

Gustave Sessinghaus, the Republican nominee in Frost's district, is a prosperous miller and his name may be said to be a household word. He is about forty years of age and stands well in the business community. His public services have been confined to a seat for two terms in the School Board.

The State Ticket.

DEMOCRATIC.

In introducing the Democratic nominee on the State ticket, attention is called to the fact that a handsomer collection of men were never associated upon a ticket. Col. Thomas T. Crittenden, the candidate for Governor, is forty-seven years of age, but would not look it were his hair not gray. He is a lawyer, the business partner of Senator Cockrell, and lives at Warrensburg.

Robert A. Campbell, the candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, is forty-six years of age, and was born in Pike county, this State. Previous to removing to St. Louis he represented his native county in the Legislature and was a member of the Thirtieth General Assembly from St. Louis.

Michael K. McGrath, Secretary of State, is forty-seven years of age, and well-known in St. Louis, which is his home, although for six years he has resided at the State capital. He was at one time Clerk of the Criminal Court of this city.

John Walker, of Howard, candidate for State Auditor, is a very large, fine-looking man of fifty, with plain home-spun ways about him. He is a leading granger, and has a strong hold upon the ruralists.

Phil. E. Chappel, the next Treasurer, is a resident of Jefferson City, where he runs a bank. He has never had any experience in politics, and is simply a business man, who looks upon the office of Treasurer with business views.

Hon. Daniel H. McIntyre, of Audrain, the next Attorney-General, is a leading lawyer in his section. He is a native Missourian, and is forty-seven years of age. For many terms he has been the acknowledged leader of his party.

Robert McCullough, the next Register of Lands, is a Missourian by birth and lives up at Boonville, in Cooper county, of which he is Sheriff. He is close on to sixty years of age, and one of the most popular men in the county.

Judge Robert D. Ray, of Carroll county, the next Judge of the Supreme Court, is one of the ablest jurists in the State, and is known by the bench and bar all over Missouri. He is sixty years of age.

George C. Pratt, of Boone county, has for several years resided in St. Louis, being Clerk of the Board of Railroad Commissioners, of which he will shortly become a member.

The Democrat Electors, all of whom are well known in the State, are mainly lawyers. The ticket is as follows: At Large, J. L. D. Morrison, of St. Louis: H. N. Phillips, of Stoddard: First District, Jas. O. Broadhead, St. Louis; Second, Ed. P. McCarty, of St. Louis; Third, Wm. P. Bentley, of St. Louis; Fourth, Marshall Arnold, of Scott county; Fifth, Jos. E. Organ, of Dent; Sixth, Frank C. Nesbitt, of St. Clair; Seventh, Xenophon Ryland, of Lafayette; Eighth, James Gibson, of Jackson; Ninth, Charles F. Booher, of Andrew; Tenth, E. M. Harber, of Grundy; Eleventh, J. D. Thurmond, of Callawayr Twelfth, John C. Williams, of Macon; Thirteenth, Champ Clark, of Pike.

REPUBLICAN

The ticket is headed by David Paterson Dyer, a St. Louis lawyer of prominence who distinguished himself in the prosecution of the whisky ring.

Milo Blair, candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is a character in Missouri, having always appeared at the head of minorities. He lives at Sedalia and edits a paper called the Eagle. He was one of the 306 at Chicago.

James C. Broadwell, candidate for Secretary of State, is a St. Louis boy, and is now clerk of the House of Delegates. He was formerly assistant secretary of the Council. The other candidates are L. A. Thompson, a Montomery county banker, for Auditor; H. H. Harding, a young lawyer of Jasper county, for Attorney-General, W. L. Dollinger, a retired capitalist of Jefferson City, for Treasurer; Howard Barnes, a colored restaurant keeper, of Jefferson City; for Railroad Commissioner, and Judge J. V. C. Karnes, of Kansas City, for Supreme Judge.

The Republican electors are:

At large, John P. Tracy, William H. H. Brown; First District, Frederick Hill; Second District, Henry Hiemenz: Third District, Frederick Siefker; Fourth District, Hugh C. Davidson; Fifth District, Washington I. Wallace; Sixth District, Oliver H. Picher; Seventh District, Charles A. Thompson; Eighth District, William J. Terrill; Ninth District, Archibald E. Wyatt; Tenth District, Alexander W. Mullins; Eleventh District, John F. Baker; Twelfth District, Benjamin M. Prentiss; Thirteenth District, Ira Hall.

THE GREENBACKERS

have also a full State ticket in the field, and an electoral ticket headed by Weaver and Chambers. The State ticket was nominated at Sedalia last spring, and is: For Governor, Luman A. Brown, of Howard county; for Lieutenant-Governor, Homer F. Fellows, of Greene county; for Secretary of State, O. D. Jones, of Knox county; for State Auditor, A. C. Marquis, of St. Clair county; for State Treasurer, William Lowry; for Attorney General, A. N. McGindley, of Randolph county; for Judge of the Supreme Court, Peter E. Bland, of St. Louis; for Register of Lands, James A. Matney, of Buchanan county; for Railroad Commissioner, Jesse P. Alexander, of Jackson county.

The Greenback electors are: At large, Andrew Royal, O. H. Barker; First District, W. G. Church; Second District, Charles Peterler; Third District, Alexander Robbins; Fourth District, S. R. Burford; Fifth District, G. J. Cowan; Sixth District, D. N. Thompson; Seventh District, S. A. Warden; Eighth District, Silas F. Allen; Ninth District, J. L. Johnson; Tenth District, A. S. Cloud; Eleventh District, J. R. Miller; Twelfth District, Thos. L. Anderson; Thirteenth District, W. L. Gatewood.

The City Ticket.

Capt. Isaac Mason, the Republican candidate for Sheriff, is a type of respectability. Indeed he is immaculate. He talks softly and moves about noiselessly. He is much given to churches and charitable enterprises, is erroneously supposed to be a temperance reformer, and being a thoroughgoing business man, finds congenial society in commercial association. He was elected City Marshal in the spring of 1877, having the Republican nomination and the endorsement of the N. C. Hudson People's movement.

Morgan Boland, the Democratic candidate, is a tall, athletic, soldierly-looking man, of about forty-five years of age. He was through the war as an artilleryman, since which time he has been on the police force, for the past five years as a sergeant. He is a man of detective instincts and devoted to the policeness, and his friends claim for him strong executive ability.

Andrew Brown, who is said to be a Greenback candidate for Sheriff, is a young man of fine appearance, and with experience in public life other than that gained on the police force and in the canvass made for Sheriff two years ago. He was at that time strong among the young workingmen.

W. H. Horner, the Democratic candidate for Circuit Judge, has never held office, but has been in public life for many years. He is a first-class lawyer and stands well among the members of the bar. His opponent, John D. Johnson, is very tall and quite talented. He is a brother to Chas. P. Johnson, and has a valuable practice, which his friends are surprised to see him sacrifice for a possible position on the bench.

Sam Erskine, the Democratic candidate for Circuit Attorney, has been in St. Louis since a boy. He is a man in the prime of life, and of energy. He has held several minor offices, like the one he now fills, that of City Attorney, and was once before nominated by his party for Circuit Attorney, but withdrew from the ticket. Joseph R. Harris, his opponent, came here about six years ago from the East, and immediately identified himself with his party. He is young and known to be a good lawyer.

E. A. Noonan, candidate for Assistant Circuit Attorney, is as well known as any man in St. Louis, and has held the office to which he desires re-election for four years past. Cornelius MacBride, his opponent, came here about three years ago from Mississippi. He is a young lawyer of promise and at present engaged as Deputy Coroner.

Martrom D. Lewis, the Public Administrator, has for two years held the place, the right to which no one seems to question.

Judge Woerner, the candidate for Supreme Judge, is one of the oldest members of the bar, and has been on the Probate bench for years.

Judicial.

The judicial district composed of St. Louis city and the counties of St. Louis, Warren and Lincoln is called upon to elect a Judge of the Court of Appeals to serve twelve years.

Judge John Wickham, the Democratic candidate, is a gentleman on the shady side of forty. In appearance he is rugged, and his face shows strong intellectuality. He is a lawyer of experience, and has for several years been upon the Circuit bench.

His opponent, Seymour D. Thompson, is a fleshy, good natured, well-preserved man of middle age, who would be taken for a good liver. He is a lawyer of profound learning and stands high in his profession. He never held office, this being his maiden dash for political preferment.

Senatorial.

In the Twenty-ninth District Ira C. Terry, a prominent lawyer, formerly attorney for the Iron Mountain Railroad, is the Democratic nominee. The Republicans have put up Henry Manistre, contractor. Manistre has served three terms in the Legislature. Thomas Mockler, a bricklayer, is the Greenback nominee.

In the Thirty-first District the Democratic nominee is James McGrath, the well-known architect. The Republicans have put up J. W. Southerland, who was at one time agent of the State for the sale of Agricultural College lands. The Greenbackers have nominated one of their number by the name of George Sporer.

In the Thirty-third District the Republican nominee is Henry L. Rogers, a popular young man connected with the Golden Eagle clothing house. The Democratic nominee is Capt. Dan Able.

Legislative.

In the First District the Democrats have put up Judge J. D. S. Dryden, an old member, A. B. Cunningham, editor of the Hornet, and John C. Scott. The Republican nominees are Major J. C. McGinness, a former member, F. W. Mott, a lawyer who was in the XXXth Assembly; Geo. E. Smith, an old St. Louisan, and Chas. Nagel, a representattve German. The Greenbackers are George Schureman, Pat. Canton, P. P. Hill and Enoch Berger.

In the Second District, the Democratic nominees are ex-Lieut. Governor Chas. P. Johnson, James J. Stanton, an ex-member of the School Board, Frank McManus, Clerk of Justice B. P. Taaffe's court, and P. W. Provenchere, a young lawyer and former member of the Central Committee. The Republicans are G. E. Bigot, C. P. Walbridge, W. W. Ivory and J. W. Wilson, the colored editor. The Greenbackers are L. B. Godlove, Theo. Tindall, Ed. Sepperle and Fred. Swain, all young mechanics. In the Third District the Democrats have Judge Jno. F. Walton, a former Justice of the Peace, James J. McGarry, an ex-Constable, James Carroll, a Deputy Sheriff, and Hugh Brady, an old member of the assembly. The Republicans are Wm. J. Metzger, an ex-policeman; Richard T. Brophy, Arnold Beck, and James J. Brady. The Greenbackers are John O. McCullom, Chas. Mason, John M. Hagerty and James M. Boggs.

In the Fourth District the Democratic candidates are, Richard Ray, J. F. Merriman and P. Mulcahey; Republican candidates, Chas. C. Allen, Horace Fox and Chas. Schoenbeck; Greenback candidates, W. M. Tozier, Thomas Blake and Wm. Burden.

CARONDELET JOTTINGS.

The Literary Society has postponed for one week "Ten Nights in a Bar-room."

There will be fourteen census enumerators appointed for the Twenty-fourth Ward.

J. Malloy is reported sick and destitute, and application was made this morning to send him to the City Hospital.

There was a large crowd at Turner Hall last night, the closing rally of the Republicans in this ward for the present campaign.

Mrs. Hiltenbrand paid $8 in the Police Court this morning for disturbing the peace of Mrs. Jenks, calling her some hard names.

There is now almost a certainty that there will be two more elevators commenced here in a short time, located north of the one now building.

By the closing of the South St. Louis furnace a large number of men are thrown out of employment. Very unfortunate at this season of the year.

There are two well known Greenbackers who desire to be represented in the grand wheelbarrow procession, a notice of which appeared in the POST-DISPATCH of last evening, Messrs. R. C. Copp and Ed. Lawler, and they will walk in the rear with heavy crape on their hats.

Francis Poupeney, Jr., has his main store in the Rock House, corner of Main and Union streets, fairly opened, and the public will there find a complete stock of new goods and latest styles in the lines of gents' furnishing goods and underwear, hats and caps. Mr. Poupeney is an enterprising business man, and his numerous friends heartily wish him success in his new location.

FISHING AND HUNTING.

Shooting has been of the finest kind at King's Lake recently.

Charles Maffit left last night for a few days' hunting at King's Lake.

Gen. John W. Noble left this morning for a few days' hunt at Dardenne.

Capt. H. C. West returned Thursday from Dardenne, after bagging ninety ducks.

Mr. Thomas Burt and two friends killed ninety quail one day this week at Dardenne.

Charles Lucas, Wilson Hunt and Charles Powell are all at King's Lake to-day shooting.

Bud Dozier returned Thursday from Dardenne, where he had a most successful duck hunt.

Mr. Wm. F. Chamberlain started yesterday for a couple of days' shooting at Murdock Lake.

Nearly all the members of the St. Louis Gun Club have been out hunting this week or are going next week.

Messrs. Charles L. Hunt and John W. Munson recently killed ninety-two ducks at King's Lake on a one day's hunt.

George Dana, of the Excelsior Manufacturing Co., has been down on the Gasconade River for a week past, fishing.

What a Lady Says.

I am sure no cooking stove that ever was made has given so great satisfaction as the Charter Oak. The arrangement of the flues is such as to always insure a good draft and quick, uniform baking, which enables the housekeeper to do a large amount of kitchen work with a moderate quantity of fuel: the Reservoir is unusually large and supplies all the hot water required.

A Lime-Kiln Club Episode.

From the Detroit Free Press.

The question before the Lime-Kiln Club last night was: "Is a person who has a police whistle is his pocket any safer than a man who can jump a six-rail fence?" "At de fust glance dat seems an oneasy conundrum," answered the old man, "but when you cum to ponder on it you mus' see dat de jumper can't allus fin' a fence to jump. He may jump agin a house, or a tree, or a hedge. He may jump ober a fence to escape robbers only to be tackled by a wolf-trap or a bull-dog. If you hev a purleece whistle, an' de purleece hev time to answer a call, an' you lay de whistle down an' tackle de pusson an' hold him fast till de officer arroves, it am better dan jumpin', but de chances am dat de judge will let de man off an' hint dat you didn't hev a case 'nuff to hang a hat on. Seems to me, considerin' all circumferences, dat it am bes' to take a street kvar fur as ye kin an' put in some tall runnin' de balance of de way."

"De president doubtless meant to say circumstances instead of circumferences," remarked the Rev. Penstock as he gracefully straightened his spinal column.

"Brudder Penstock, dis cha'r wants it distinctly understood dat when it says circumferences it doan' mean nuffin else!"

"Some folks would have said circumstances," added the Reverend, as he sat down. "An' some folks might hev said sassage, but didn't."

ABOUT TOWN.

AT the Zoological Garden at the Fair Grounds the birth of an elan antelope is daily expected. The parents of the anticipated animal have been in the garden for a year past.

The regular services in the Central Presbyterian Church, corner of Garrison and Lucas avenue, will be held to-morrow morning and evening. Preaching by Rev. R. G. Brank, D. D.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Board or Directors of the Fair Association will be held next Saturday, when the Treasurer will make his report and the financial results will be officially determined.

MISSOURI LODGE, No. 2, K. of P., worked in the initiatory rank last evening. This lodge, the oldest in the city, is progressing rapidly and bids fair to become one of the banner lodges of the West.

THE epizootic is still prevalent, though not in a dangerous form. Apprehensions were entertained that the advent of cloudy weather would aggravate the existing cases, and cause the disease to spread, but these fears have been proved unfounded. There are a few new cases, but nothing of consequence.

THE Justices' courts are exceedingly dull and will remain so until after election. A number of them are busily electioneering at present, and scarcely any business is being transacted before them. To-day especially everything was quiet, and but in few instances could one of the magistrates be found in his office.

SCARCELY one-fifth of the diplomas and medals awarded at the recent Fair to successful exhibitors have been applied for and obtained. Under the rules those to whom diplomas were awarded should apply to the Fair Association within thirty days after the conclusion of the Fair. Unless they do so within the prescribed limit they may have some difficulty in procuring their diplomas or medals.

THE Chautauqua Scientific and Literary Circle of St. Louis met on Tuesday evening, October 26, in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., Eleventh and Locust, and organized for the course of 1881, electing O. H. P. Applegate, President; Helen Peabody, Vice-President; N. Parker, Secretary; Miss Budd, Treasurer. Those desiring to enroll will do so at once to get full benefit of the course. First regular meeting second Tuesday in November at same quarters.

Nothing Can Compare To It.
Burrell, Comstock & Co. have succeeded in getting together for their fall and winter stock the handsomest, richest, most unique and novel lot of furniture ever seen in one establishment, even their own, which is every year the headquarters for buyers of the best and cheapest furniture. Their display at the Fair a little while ago was merely an earnest of what this house could achieve in elegant house-fittings. They manufacture themselves, and that is the great secret of their low prices for such superb furniture. They are showing in parlor sets, frames and stuffs for upholstering more magnificent things than have ever before been found in a Western market. We are no longer dependent upon the East for fine furniture so long as we keep with us the house of Burrell, Comstock & Co., 106 N. Fourth street.

Fifty Dollars for Her Fun.
Margaret Shaughnessy amused herself yesterday and to-day paid for the same. She called at the Dispensary and wanted medicine for some imaginary ailment, and because Dr. Carson did not attend to her immediately she armed herself with some bricks and then paid another visit to the City Hall. An officer dropped in just then, and this morning Judge Decko said Mag must certainly have had $50 worth of fun and he accordingly assessed her that amount, and she left for the Work-house this afternoon.

Gambling Cases.
The following gambling cases were disposed of in the First District Police Court to-day: Daniel Buckner, John Hughes, Anthony Dickens, Samuel Kelso, John Smith and Paul Thurman were fined $25. Cases against W. H. Godfrey and Alex. Tyler were nolle pros'ed. Charles J. Wilson was assessed costs.

BY the ADDITION of their recent IMPORTATIONS, Mermod, Jaccard & Co., Fourth and Locust, now offer you a stock of $140,000 worth of diamonds from which to make your SELECTIONS.

A PERMANENT CUT.

The Rate to Kansas City to Remain at the Cut Figure.

More Particulars of the Chicago Meeting—No Further Rate Smashing Until Next Thursday.

The remainder of the St. Louis delegates to the Chicago peace meeting returned this morning. They report that at the after-meeting nothing whatever was accomplished. So far as St. Louis is concerned there will be no change of rates before the next meeting, next Thursday, in Chicago. All the roads are now selling a $5 straight ticket to Chicago without a drawback. This is sufficient to keep the unlimited tickets out of the market for the present until some adjustment can be had. It was the general sentiment of the Chicago meeting that a rate of about $4 50 must be maintained until all the Wabash unlimited tickets were off the market. Also that the Wabash must redeem its own tickets at $4 50. Also that these unlimited tickets be made good over any road. The Wabash did not exactly concede with this sentiment, as, if it were carried out, they would lose every advantage gained by the war so far except an amount of free advertising. The Wabash folks generally are holding themselves pretty stiff. They say they were invited to make peace, but did not ask for peace themselves. In the event of a pool between here and Chicago they want one-third of the business, and will take no less. At the Presidents' meeting held in New York the Wabash agreed that its unlimited tickets should be good over any road, but now it holds that this was only to be done so long as regular rates were maintained. Now that the rates have been cut it will redeem nothing. Among other things done at Chicago was instructing the St. Louis delegation to make up a statement of all the unlimited tickets issued by each road and now on the market. This statement is to be forwarded to Commissioner Midgley, of the Southwestern Rate Association, and he will report it with recommendations to the Chicago meeting next week. The managers of the St. Louis roads were appointed a committee to prepare a plan of peace settlement to be submitted also at this meeting. These managers instructed their general passenger and ticket agents to make up the settlement, and a meeting was held in Chicago for that purpose the day after the general meeting, but nothing whatever was accomplished. The ticket and passenger men will work on the problem until next Wednesday, when they will have a private meeting in Chicago, reporting the next day to the general meeting. It has been stated that the Wabash brought about this war because the C. and A. worked against their obtaining terminal facilities in Chicago, and this is true, but there is also an old outstanding grudge of the Wabash against the C. and A. Two years ago, when the latter road opened its line to Kansas City, it secretly stocked the market with unlimited tickets at very low rates, supposed to be about $4 50. The Wabash claims that it has now only retaliated and done so openly. The same road also asserts that just prior to their getting admission to Chicago the C. and A. stocked up the scalpers with a large number of tickets at cut rates. The Chicago and Alton end of the story is difficult to get here, as the officials all live in Chicago. This morning all the lines to Kansas City began selling a $5 drawback ticket to that point. This ticket, or probably a $4 50 one, will be maintained until all the Wabash unlimited are off the market, which will be a year or two at least. There is really very little fight here so far as Kansas City is concerned, but the Missouri Pacific is obliged to make a low rate in order to protect the large business which in the last twenty years it has built up. The C. and A. has no Kansas City business out of St. Louis; hence it can well stand a low rate, although it is the long line. So far as a general Eastern war is concerned there are no new developments to-day. Rates are being cut out of Chicago, but here they are pretty firm. No important steps will be taken by any road until after next Thursday's meeting.

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

Instead of going to an asylum for imbeciles or inebriates, James J. Stanton wants to go to the Legislature. His election would not only be an injury and disgrace to the city, but make her ridiculous before the whole State. Respectable Democrats of the First, Third, Tenth and Seventeenth Wards will do well to scratch Stanton.

John W. Drake wants to be Constable of the Second Ward. He is notoriously unfit to hold that or any office. He is self-nominated and represents nobody in the world but a suspicious ring of small politicians who claim to own in fee simple the primary ballot boxes of the Second Ward. Scratch him!

Dan Able wants to be State Senator. He is a very clever fellow personally, but politically he represents nothing except what is bad. He runs with the machine, was nominated by the worst ring influence of this city, and his election would simply mean a lobbyist inside the Senate. Scratch him!

The first duty of true Democracy is to vote for no ringsters, tricksters or jobbers—for no man who uses politics for a living and parties as a protective shield!

Scratch! Scratch! Scratch!

POOR HAULS.

Three Burglars Enter a Residence and Only Secure Fifty Cents—Another Case.

About 10 o'clock last night three young fellows, all about twenty years of age, entered the residence of Mr. Thomas Dillon, No. 2623 Jefferson avenue, and stole fifty cents from a drawer. They were about to rifle the bureau, when Mr. Dillon raised a cry of "Thieves!" As the three ran one aimed a revolver and fired one shot at Mr. Dillon, but missed his mark. The ball lodged in the window sill. The burglar entered the house by cutting the slats in the shutter and raising the window.

On Thursday night, while Mrs. William Lawler, of 2704 Saloman avenue, was absent at a party, thieves effected an entrance into her house by cutting the slats of the shutters and then cutting the glass from the sash. Among other thing, they secured a gold sleeve button, shirt stud, small cross and a gold breast pin, on which the letters "A. L." were engraved.

Struck With a Brick.

Chas. McCain was before Judge Decko to-day to prosecute Minnie Sells and Mary Reed, two young colored women. Charles last evening wandered up an alley between Myrtle and Spruce and Sixth and Seventh streets. When he met the young ladies he had two sparkling gray eyes; when he came out he only had one. The other was completely closed from view, and Mary did it with a little brick. The power of both the orbs was concentrated in the one and Charles positively identified Mary as the girl that struck him. Minnie was discharged and Mary granted a continuance.

A Model Shoe Store.

Among the many improvements made on Franklin avenue during the last two years, none are more deserving mention than the change lately inaugurated in the now mammoth shoe store of J. G. Brandt, Nos. 504 and 506 Franklin avenue. Mr. Brandt has just added the finishing touches to his new establishment, and is in receipt of one of the largest and most perfectly assorted stocks of boots, shoes etc., ever opened in the West, and the reputation he has always borne for uprightness and fair dealing will no doubt insure him the increase in business which his enterprise deserves.

Severely Burned.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Willie Schlingman, a baby, was dangerously burned at the Women's Guardian Home, No. 1735 North Twelfth street. The child was near the stove when its clothes caught fire, and before the flames were extinguished he received severe burns about the body.

THE SECRET ORDERS.

The Past Week's Work Among the Various Local Lodges.

Personal Notes and Newsy Items in Which is Represented the Masonic and Other Mystic Orders.

For the week ending to-day matters have been fairly active among the various organizations of secrecy in this city. The sessions of all have been largely attended, in fact better than any week during the month, but the principal work has been in conferring the degrees, and every lodge has advanced its membership from one to five. Appended appears a full and reliable chronicle of the week's proceedings so far as can be given to the uninitiated.

The Grand Chapter of Ireland has just been re-organized.

In Illinois there are 691 lodges, with a membership of 36,570.

THE SOWER'S BUDGET.

Interesting Facts and Suggestions for the Farmer.

Profitable Sheep Raising—The Value of Onions—Apples in a Wet Cellar—Milch Cows and their Care—Farm Notes and Household Receipts, Etc.

The judicious breeding and rearing of sheep, says the Rural New Yorker, is undoubtedly the most profitable branch of husbandry pursued in America. If any one is in doubt as to this, let him consider—first, the value of the fleece; second, the mutton; third the pelts; fourth, the increase of the flock; fifth, the improvement of the soil on which they feed, and, lastly, that they can be kept on lands so rough that the herbage must necessarily go to waste unless cropped by sheep.

What breed of sheep would be best to rear and keep to insure the greatest profit? This can only be answered by each flock-master for himself, as it depends on a combination of climate, soil, and situation. On cheap lands, distant from a mutton market, fine-wooled breeds, such as the Merino, Silesian, and others of cognate blood, are generally found to be the most profitable, as the wool, the pelts, and the increase of the flock alone, are of any considerable value. Long-wooled breeds to a certain extent may also be kept here, and pay well when their fleeces fetch a fair price for combing for worsted stuff goods. On higher-priced lands, convenient to a good meat market, or to a port of exportation to ship them abroad, choice mutton breeds which bear a reasonably good fleece are to be preferred. Here mutton, as in Great Britain, is the chief thing to be depended upon for profit, wool being only a secondary consideration.

Of the various mutton breeds, which are considered best? In answer to this we may say that each one may be the best for a certain time, and according to circumstances. If a combination of a considerably increased size and more flesh is immediately desired in the produce from lean native or Merino ewes or their grades, then a fine, compact, long-wooled ram would be best to cross upon them; but only one, or, at most, two crosses should be made, for beyond this the carcass would run too much to tallow, and the mutton prove too fat for table consumption, except, perhaps, the quarters. After these crosses, the grade sheep should be bred together, one South, or some other Down ram be put to the ewe, the produce of which would be still more improved in the mutton quality.

For the production of very choice, well marbled, lean, tender, juicy meat, the pure Southdown is the best of all breeds of sheep. Added to this, he is very hardy and thrifty, matures early, and fattens quickly. A flock of ewes properly taken care of annually yield a considerable percentage of lambs over their number, and, being excellent nurses, almost invariably bring them all up well. This is the original Down of England, from crosses of which all other Down varieties have sprung, or, at least, have been greatly improved. Such are the Hampshire, the Shropshire, and the Oxfordshire. These three last have now become essentially the same as the first mentioned, the only difference being a somewhat increased size, particularly in the Oxford. For this reason we have no doubt this will prove the best and most profitable sort to breed for exportation. The general British market prefers the largest size that can be obtained, which combines with size a lean tender, savory quality of mutton.

The losses of sheep from disease and other causes have been very large for two years past in Great Britain; in consequence of this, there is an active demand for them now from America with the prospect of a continual increase. Thousands, if properly bred, may be disposed of there for years to come at good prices, where only hundreds have heretofore been taken. Here is a most promising opening for our flock-masters, and if they bestir themselves to fill it judiciously, they will be sure to reap a rich reward.

CONCERNING ONIONS.

Onions are eaten to a greater extent than any garden vegetables raised with the exception of cabbages. With many they serve the double purpose of food and condiment. Some persons who abhor their odor and dislike their taste eat them because they are nutritious and conducive to health. In many portions of Europe where land is scarce, and people desire to produce all the food from it they can, onions are raised to a large extent. They take the place of butter and cheese in supplying a relish to coarse bread. They are sliced in vinegar and eaten raw, made into soup, and cooked boiling and frying. In the warm countries of Southern Europe onions take the place of cabbages and potatoes to a very great extent.

It is somewhat singular that onions are not fed in considerable quantities to poultry and all kinds of live stock. Fowls of all varieties are extremely fond of them and derive great benefit from eating them. Besides serving all the purposes of true food they aid digestion and tend to ward off disease. They may be fed raw or cooked. Chickens will eat not only the bulbs but the leaves when chopped up and mixed with dough. Chickens that are allowed onions prepared in this way rarely, if ever, are troubled with cholera. Chickens that eat onions are not likely to be infested by vermin. One of the best kinds of food for laying hens during the winter consists of cooked meat, potatoes, and onions. Onions are cheaper than pepper to feed to poultry, and they answer the same purposes.

Almost all kinds of stock are fond of onions, and there is generally considerable difficulty in keeping them from eating them. Of course they should not be fed to milch cows, owing to the odor and flavor they impart to milk, but other kinds of stock may eat onions, not only without detriment, but with great advantage. All animals delight in condiments, and there is nothing in the line of relishes that they will eat as readily as they will onions. For young stock they should be chipped up and fed with grain and meat, but for large animals they require no preparation. Onions that are large enough to be salable in seasons when they are tolerably high are expensive food for stock, but there are always many that are too small or too ill-shapen to sell.

To grow onions on a large scale to advantage the ground should be prepared in the fall, as the seed should be planted almost as soon as the frost leaves the soil in the spring. As onions are gross feeders the land on which they are planted should be very heavily manured. To prevent trouble with weeds the fertilizers applied should be free from seeds, which will ordinarily germinate before the onion seed will. Well-rotted stable manure is excellent and so are the fertilizers prepared from meat, blood, and other slaughter-house refuse. Ashes and salt are also good fertilizers for this crop. The first cause the young plants to grow rapidly and the last will destroy many insects. Coarse and rank manures are not desirable.

Onions should not be harvested till the weather becomes tolerably cool in the fall, though they will ripen quite early in the season. The moisture should be allowed to dry from them before they are stored away. They should be kept where the temperature is good and the air tolerably dry. If they are aided by heat and moisture they will shrivel and become unfit for cooking purposes and, of course, for the market. An ordinary cellar is too moist and too warm for preserving onions. An extensive onion-grower makes, for keeping onions, as deep a pit as he can with a plow in a dry, sheltered place near the house, scraping out all the loose dirt with a hoe, and putting in some chaff or straw from the straw stack, and tramping down well. Then he hauls the onions from where they grew, and piles them in carefully on this, and puts more chaff on top and covers up with a foot of dirt from each side, and packs it smooth with the spade, where they can remain a part or all of the winter, or until wanted.

A WET CELLAR FOR KEEPING APPLES.

In view of the constantly increasing production of apples and the seemingly almost universal crop the present season, and as the late keepers usually bring the most remunerative prices, it is of vast importance that we practice the best known methods of picking, packing and storing. In this matter many have pet theories that are directly opposite to those of others. For instance, a recent correspondent states that among essentials for keeping apples is a dry cellar with cement bottom. This is directly opposite to the experience of all the fruit dealers who visited my cellar for the purpose of inspecting stock during the past winter and spring, among them two from West Virginia, who handled thousands of barrels in this county alone the past season, and extensive fruit growers. One of them remarked that whenever he entered a cellar and was compelled to walk on boards to keep out of the water, he was sure to find the fruit in good condition, allowing, of course, that the temperature had been kept as near the freezing point as possible—as is necessary in either case.

Now both of these advocates are enthusiastic in their theories; is it true that both are correct? As an experiment during apple-picking last fall, selections were made of the Northern Spy and Yellow Bellflower carefully handled; each specimen of the latter was wrapped separately in paper and placed in ventilated packages, and stored immediately in my cellar, where, owing to the spongy nature of the location, notwithstanding the thorough drainage, during the spring months water will be found on portions of the earth bottom. The result has been that we are now, July 2, supplied with samples of the Spy in a good state of preservation; the Bellflower held out well till June 1. Taking into consideration that neither variety is classed among the long-keepers, the latter being what dealers term "holiday fruit," I am fully convinced that by careful and judicious handling, and practicing all the other best known conditions favorable for keeping fruit, dampness, or in other words a wet cellar bottom, is not detrimental to the long-keeping of our winter fruit.

PIG FEEDING.

Corn meal with potatoes alone will not suffice to make pork profitable, with any breed of hogs. The real value of potatoes is about one-third that of corn meal, and they generally cost too much to come into competition with corn meal. Suffolk and Berkshire pigs may be profitably fed, and sold at nine to ten months old, upon clover, corn meal, linseed meal, or corn and oat meal. One-half pound of linseed meal per day, on the average, to six months old, would be sufficient. Or, corn and oats ground together in equal bulk would do well. After a thrifty pig has reached 100 pounds weight, it may be safely fed upon corn, but even then, a pound of bran, mixed with the corn, would be a safeguard against disease.

PRODUCE GOOD MILKERS.

Extra milkers should be kept to breed from their milking quantities alone entitling them to this preference. It is quite as necessary to raise the calves of good milkers, in order to have another race of good milkers, as it is to raise the colts of good trotters in order to have fast horses. Extra dairy cows are always in demand. It is certainly to be regretted that more care is not taken to improve the milking qualities of our cows; and it is also a source of regret that so many of our farmers are in the habit of disposing of so many of their young calves to the butchers.

Farm Notes.

Middle Tennessee has a large corn crop but few hogs, and agents are traveling in other parts of that and adjoining States buying up shotes and hogs to turn the corn into pork.

A couple of years ago when wool was so low, a farmer near Stateville, Mississippi, put his wool clip into mattresses. This season he ripped open the mattresses and sold the wool in them for $250.

New mown hay is not, as some allege, an irritant of the digestive organs; where it produces irritation it is simply the consequence of allowing animals to eat too much of the odoriferous, appetizing forage, and not drinking sufficiently, which brings on digestion.

Experience teaches that stock entering into winter quarters in good condition can be kept without difficulty; while an animal beginning the winter in poor condition, notwithstanding an abundance of feed, careful housing and the best attention, will invariably be in poor order in the following spring; particularly is this the case with common stock. Fat stock consumes a less amount of food than poor stock, because there is not so much required to keep up the animal heat.

Agricultural Items.

The voice of the predatory wolf is nightly heard in the suburbs of Morrison, county seat of Whiteside county, Ill.

A farmer near Tamaroa, Perry county, Ill., sprinkled strychnine on the carcass of a dead sheep, and next morning found a dead wolf.

The largest hog in the country is a Poland-China, four years old this spring, lately on exhibition at Junction City, Kansas. His length is 7 feet; girth of neck, 6 1-2 feet; girth of chest, 7 1-2 feet; girth of center, 8 feet; width across the hips, 30 inches, and weight, 1,532 pounds.

A new and hitherto unknown disease is prevailing among the cattle in Southern Virginia, and has caused considerable loss to the farmers in that section. The symptoms of the disease are loss of appetite and general languid appearance. Almost every case of the disease proves fatal.

A case of poisoning by pressed corned beef is reported from Colorado Springs, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Knight and Mrs. Mary Freeman and son being the victims. They were excursionists from Denver, and had corned beef in their commissary supplies. At last accounts they were recovering.

In Hackettstown, N. J., a new grain destroyer has been discovered in the form of a bird about the size of a sparrow. It pierces the fruit with a sharp bill, extracts a little juice, and the fruits rots almost immediately. The birds go in pairs. The male has a yellow breast, golden gray back and wings, while the female is wholly golden gray. They were first seen in the vineyard of J. C. Allen.

The Anti-Drive-Well Association of Minnesota may as well blow their horn and rally to the center, for the enemy is coming down upon them like a wolf on the fold. The owners of driven wells have retired to winter quarters with the supposition that, because numberless suits were hanging fire in the United States courts, no further steps would be taken by the patentees until one or more of these cases were decided. But there's where they are mistaken.

Many of the leading orchard proprietors in northern Italy and southern Germany are cultivators of the common black ant, which insect they hold in high esteem as the fruit-grower's best friend. They establish ant-hills in their orchards, and leave the police service of their fruit trees to the tiny colonists, which pass their time in climbing up the stems of the fruit trees, cleansing their boughs and leaves of malefactors, mature as well as embryotic, and descending laden with spoils to the ground, where they comfortably consume or prudently store away their booty. They never meddle with sound fruit, but only invade such apples, pears, and plums as have already been penetrated by the canker, which they remorselessly pursue to its fastnesses within the very heart of the fruit. Nowhere are apple and pear trees so free from blight and destructive insects as in the immediate neighborhood of a large ant-hill five or six years old. The favorite food of ants would appear to be the larvæ and pupæ of those creatures which spend the whole of their brief existence in devouring the tender shoots and juvenile leaves of fruit trees.

Household Receipts.

PUMPKIN PIE, I.—Stew the pumpkin very dry indeed; take a pint of rich cream, or if this is not obtainable, half a pint of warm milk with one quarter of a pound of butter stirred well into it; beat eight eggs very light, and stir them into the other ingredients, together with sugar enough to make it sweet, add to this a grated nutmeg, a large teaspoonful of powdered mace and cinnamon mixed, a wine-glass of rose-water, and a glass of wine mixed together, and a tiny pinch of salt; beat all together very hard, and bake in a rich paste.

PUMPKIN-PIE, II.—Take the pumpkin when stewed and while hot; stir in a piece of butter the size of an egg; to every quart of pumpkin, after it is stewed and mashed, add a quart of milk and four or six eggs, as you choose; sugar to taste; one-half teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, and one small nutmeg grated. Bake in a hot oven in a nice paste.

PUMPKIN PIE, III.—To a quart of pumpkin, after it is stewed and sieved, allow one quart of milk, a lump of butter, a pinch of salt, two tablespoonfuls of ginger, and one egg to each pie, or a tablespoonful of flour may be substituted for the egg. Bake in a good paste about three-quarters of an hour.

COCOANUT PUDDING.—Take half a pound of desiccated cocoanuts and two thick slices of bread; put them to soak in a quart of milk for two or three hours; then add an ounce of butter, two ounces of sugar, the yolks of four eggs, and a saltspoonful of salt; beat the whites to a stiff froth; add them to your pudding, and bake in a hot oven for three-quarters of an hour. Serve hot.

SPONGE-CAKE.—Twelve eggs, their weight in granulated sugar, and the same of flour. Beat the yolks of the eggs and the sugar well together; beat the whites to a stiff froth; sift the flour very lightly; add a teaspoonful of the beaten white of egg and one of the flour alternately till all is used; then add the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Put a well-greased paper in a tin baking-pan and bake the cake in it in a very hot oven; if it is getting too brown on top, cover with a piece of letter paper.

TEA ROLLS.—Half a cake of compressed yeast in three half-pints of lukewarm water; add a quart of sifted flour, and mix well to a thick batter. Let it stand six or seven hours in a moderately warm place till well risen. Then add two eggs, an ounce of butter, four ounces of sugar, and a tablespoonful of salt; add flour (about a pint) and work well with the hands till it is a soft dough. Make into rolls; put them in the pans they are to be baked in, and set near the stove to rise; as soon as they rise, bake in a quick oven.

DUCHESSE POTATOES.—Mash one quart of hot boiled potatoes through a fine colander with a potato-masher, mix them with one ounce of butter, one level teaspoonful of white pepper, quarter of a teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, and the yolks of two raw eggs; pour the potato out on a plate, and then form with a knife into small cakes, two inches long and one inch wide; lay them on a buttered tin, brush them over the top with a teaspoonful of cold water, and color them golden brown in a moderate oven.

PARMESAN PUDDING.—I find this a good substitute for maccaroni: Take one pound of Indian meal, mix it with a tablespoonful of salt, and boil it, having the water on the full boil; put in the meal and salt, a tablespoonful at a time; stir it all the time until cooked; water necessary, about one and three-quarter quarts; it ought to be cooked in fifteen minutes; when it is cooked, pour into it three-quarters of a pound of ordinary cheese, with a tablespoonful of parmesan grated fine; the hot meal ought to melt all the cheese; take a baking-dish of earthenware or tin, and, having buttered it, pour in the mixture; put on top cracker crumb, and bake to a light brown; it ought not to be too thick in the pan, so use a rather shallow one.

How Lovely Woman Stoops to Folly.

New York Letter to Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wide mouths have come into fashion for women. This is a change from the prevailing style of the past year or two. The proper mouth of the present season is worn in a constant but mild smile, the corners being drawn back horizontally, with the lips left closed. The expression is one of amiable, quiet satisfaction with all the world—as though the mind was free from sorrow and the feet free from corns. Care should be taken not to broaden this into an active grin, except on mirthful occasions; nor should the lips be compressed. All should be in repose. The lips may be reddened if the natural color be too light. A practice of painting the exposed membrane of the upper lip broad and bright just at the center has crept in, but it is bad, for it gives an artificial and sensuous look. The fashionable belle has cut the puckering-string of her mouth, and no longer murmurs, "Prunes, prunes, prunes." She can kiss two men simultaneously, and give good satisfaction, where before only one could find room at a time.

The reader who supposes that the above is fanciful, and not plain, straightforward fashion news, is very much mistaken. Women can change the style of their faces, if not at will, at least considerably. The hair over the forehead can be arranged to produce any desired outline for the upper part of the face; the mouth can be made to widely vary its expression; the eyes can be kept partly wide open or languidly half-closed, the cheeks can be rounded by using "plumpers;" the eyebrows can be arched or straightened; the color can be controlled to a high degree. Thus it is apparent that a woman can, if clever, have to some extent the kind of face she wants. The nose is about the only intractable feature. It sticks right out in unalterable independence, defying all efforts to shorten or straighten it. Let me interpolate the fact that not one woman in ten ever laughs or smiles naturally. Knowing full well our defects of teeth or expression, we try to hide or reform them. I know a girl who will never go to the minstrels, or any other funny show, because she isn't pretty when she laughs. If inadvertently caught by something comic, she buries the laugh in a handkerchief; but whenever possible she does all her laughing internally.

Unburied Six Years.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A burial permit was issued yesterday to Mrs. Elizabeth Pugh for the interment of the body of a child that has been awaiting burial for six years. Some time during the year 1874 the sexton of the Western Cemetery applied to Mrs. Pugh, who has a private vault in the cemetery, for permission to permit a family named Beatty to place the body of their child in the vault, to remain a short time. She gave the permission, and in two or three months, hearing that the body was still in the vault, she instructed Mr. Garnett, the Sexton, to have it removed. He promised to have it attended to, and she thought nothing more of the matter until a short time ago. She then determined to visit the vault, and in doing so found the coffin decayed almost to dust, except a thin shell on the outside, in which were nothing but some pieces of clothing and the skeleton of the child. The coffin was so far decayed that it could not be moved, the glass plate in the lid having dropped into the coffin. She then applied for a permit and employed an undertaker, who will to-day remove the skeleton to the potter's field and bury it. Who the parents of the child were, Mrs. Pugh does not know, nor does she know what has become of Garnett, who was sexton at the time. It is certainly a sad case of neglected dust.

Begging in Seven Languages.

From the Philadelphia Times.

One of the most persistent street beggars, superior to all rebuffs, who has plied his trade along Chestnut, Arch and Spring Garden streets for four or five years past, has been Charles Wagner, a German, wearing spectacles, who generally sported clean linen. It is said he can beg in seven languages. He was arrested a year ago and taken before Magistrate Smith, to whom he promised so earnestly to discontinue his mendicant career that he was released. Yesterday, when he accosted an old gentleman on Chestnut street and would not be bluffed off, he was reported to the police and arrested. He had over $9 in his pocket. A number of persons who knew Wagner and had been annoyed by him for several years past, including a representative of a charitable association, appeared against him. He said he was a teacher of languages. He promised to leave the city if released, and implored the magistrate not to send him to the House of Correction.

The French Susan B.

From the New York Post.

Mlle. Hubertine Auclert, the celebrated French advocate of woman's rights, is described as a blue-eyed brunette of distinguished appearance and delicate features. Her age is about twenty-five. She is the daughter of a rich landholder, and was educated in a convent. In early life she attracted notice by the manner in which she considered Christianity as a sort of republican communism. Coming of age she claimed her share of the paternal heritage, and to the horror of her six brothers and sisters went alone to Paris in 1873 to live there. She became acquainted with other ladies of advanced views, and in 1876 founded the society called le Droit des Femmes, the object of which is to obtain political and social rights for women. The members of the society number about 150. Every Wednesday evening about thirty of them meet in Mlle. Auclert's apartments to discuss their interests. Mlle. Auclert spoke at the Workingmen's Congress held in Marseilles in 1879. She is not a brilliant orator, but earnest, sincere and energetic. She possesses a handsome patrimony and lives on her income.

A farmer at Keyport, N. J., raised on a four-acre lot 6,500 pumpkins, which he sold for $275.

1. Lots 15, 16, 17 and 18 of city block 1370, fronting on Tennessee avenue.
